The ceremony commenced with welcoming the guests and brilliant Bollywood dance performances. The chief guest Brigadier Ranawat Singh cut the big anniversary cake among the applause by Udaipurites followed by 10 minutes long confetti blast show. The shoppers present there enjoyed the second phase of performances as well. During the 1-hour long program the chief guest SDM Anil Sharma, Superintendent Engineer (PWD) Anil Nepaliya, Judge- Consumer Court Sangeeta Nepaliya and other special guests were presented with bouquets and memorabilia. Centre Manger of the mall Manoj Singh, Operation Manager Sunil Arya and emcee R.J Ankit commemorated the entire fun-filled event.

RO water at the railway station for free

Udaipur : RO water plant erected at a cost of Rs 11 lakh by Lions Club, Udaipur, in order to provide fresh RO water to public for free of cost, was inaugurated by Ajmer Mandal DRM Naresh Salecha and he dedicated it to the public. Speaking at the ceremony, Salecha said that Lions club is very leading when it comes to social work. For social work, an organization is not required to be in the front. Spirit of service should be in mind. Almost 3 million of the costs of public participation by the railways of the work is being conducted on the second entry.

Three employees of court made judge

By RJS examination of the judicial function three employees became judge, of which one is a driver's son and a woman employee came for coaching from Nathdwara. The third one was a court clerk. All three of them have reduced the distance between judges and judicial employees and took farewell from fellow judicial staff on Tuesday. Harish Menaria and Kuldeep Rao from Udaipur district court and Devangini Aadichya from Nathdwara court have been made judges. All of them will take training for RJS this month in Jaipur. Only after this, they will be given postings. On addressing their fellow judicial staff at the farewell ceremony, they aspired to provide justice to the oppressed and exploited. For 9 years, they were appointed DJ Court as clerks. His father Mohanlal Menaria was the driver of municipal mayor who has now retired. Harish had no one to guide him as his parents were less educated. He would study for 4 hours after work to become a judge. After working from 10 AM until 5 PM in Nathdwara court, Devangini used to go for coaching in Udaipur and go back to Nathdwara at 10 PM. She always travelled with notes in her hands.

40 KM tunnel for Rajsamand

Udaipur : The key Dewas IV scheme water for the district to be carried to Rajsamand through a 40 km long tunnel. They plan to build a tunnel between Nandsamand from Anbawa. To prepare the DPR for this, the Water Resource Department has sent a proposal to the State Government. After approval from the Government, the survey by the DPR will begin soon. For DPR survey, the Water Resources Department has already sent a proposal to the State government. The proposal was given in a recent departmental meeting held in Jaipur. For a year, the budget will cost nearly 3.11 million. Once approved by the government, the PHED shall start the survey by providing funds to the irrigation department. The annual detailed project report will be sent to the Government, on the basis of which the plans will be formed. Earlier, in the year 2012, Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot during his stay in Udaipur announced all of the surveys for Dewas III and IV schemes, for which the Water Resources Department got a budget of 7 to 9 lacs.

It is notable that Sudeep scored 106th rank in the 2014-2015 JEE Examination among almost 13 lac candidates. Principal William D'Souza awarded him with a check of 25 thousand rupees and a trophy.

Disabled Ira Singhal, tops UPSC Exam

Ira Singhal, a 31-year-old Delhi woman, created history on Saturday by becoming the first person with disability to top the civil service examination in which four of the top five slots were bagged by women.

Renu Raj, a 27-year-old doctor from Kerala, secured second rank in her first attempt.

Nidhi Gupta, an IRS officer from Delhi, came third. Vandana Rao bagged fourth rank while Suharsha Bhagat, also an IRS officer from Bihar, got the fifth position.

Ira, who suffers from Scoliosis – a spine-related disorder – is an inspiration for women and disabled people as she overcame her disability to complete her computer engineering, MBA and several other courses. She also worked as Customer Development Manager for Cadbury India Ltd from 2008 to 2010.

Long and difficult road

Ira has travelled a long way and fought hard all along. In 2010, despite clearing the civil services exam and qualifying for IRS, she was not included in the service. The government thought that as a candidate having problems with both arms, she was eligible only for IAS and not for any other service.

Ira, who has 62 per cent disability, took the government to the Central Administrative Tribunal and, after a battle, won the case to get inducted into the IRS last year.

"Probably, this would help others in viewing women and disabled in a better way," a beaming Ira said in Hyderabad where she is undergoing training as an IRS officer. As messages of congratulations poured in, her father Rajendra Singhal and mother Anita said she was an all-rounder and one who was not bogged down by adversities.

Vandana, the fourth rank holder, is the topper in the OBC category while fifth rank holder Suharsha is a Chemical Engineer from IIT-Bombay. Nitish K from Karnataka secured eighth rank. Altogether, 1,236 candidates have been selected for the civil services this time. Among the selected, 180 will be chosen for IAS, 150 for IPS and 32 for IFS. Remaining will be given posting in Group A services (710) and Group B services (292) depending on their ranks.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi congratulated those who successfully cleared the civil services exam. "My best wishes as you begin the journey to serve the nation. To those who didn't clear the exam- such moments are a part of life. This must not deter you from your future endeavours," Modi tweeted.

Dean with Vyapam Scam link found dead in Delhi

Arun Sharma, dean of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose Medical College and Hospital in Jabalpur, was found dead in a Delhi hotel.

The dean of a medical college in Madhya Pradesh, who was assisting the police in probing the MPPEB scam, was found dead in a hotel in southwest Delhi on Sunday, adding yet another twist to the scandal.

Police said there was no prima facie evidence of foul play in the death of 64-year-old Arun Sharma, the dean of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose Medical College and Hospital in Jabalpur. Officials said it could be a case of natural death though they did not rule out suicide. There were no injuries on the body.

In a strange coincidence, Sharma's death came exactly a year after Dr DK Sakale, the former dean of the same medical college, was found dead in his official bungalow.

On Saturday, Delhi-based television journalist Akshay Singh died suddenly while on an assignment in Madhya Pradesh to interview the parents of a woman who died in suspicious circumstances after her name figured in the massive admission and recruitment scandal.

Sharma, who was also head of the radio diagnostics department of the medical college, was to retire in 2016. He came to Delhi on Saturday and was on his way to Tripura as a member of an inspection team of the Medical Council of India.

Digital India can bring change to health and education sector: Anil Agarwal Vedanta Resources Plc Chairman Anil Agarwal said, on the occasion of 'Digital India' campaign, that the Digital India program will bring in education, healthcare, the whole urbanisation of villages and it will connect India together. The initiative aims to digitally deliver all the essential services to citizens and transform India into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy by leveraging IT.

In the coming years, Vedanta group in the field of technology will encourage investment in India. India have added to the Vedanta group Digital LCD panels in India to make the entire system will establish the LCD fab. The fab of LCD panels make the entire system will be the first in India and Vedanta group in the scheme will invest US $ 10 billion. The investment of nearly thirty thousand people will get employment.

It plans to invest Rs 300-400 crore on expanding its fibre and cable manufacturing capacities to cater to increased demand mainly due to the data network expansion of telecom operators and the government's National Optic Fibre Network project that aims to connect 2,50,000 panchayats. It has supplied cable for the National Optic Fibre Network rollout across 50,000 panchayats.

Digital India through efforts are quite curious. It will create a network to India is a matter of pride for us. Through its education and health in the villages would complete urbanization and connect the whole of India together. Five hundred million people will come together on the Internet. This has never happened before anywhere in the world. If people can get education through Internet, healthcare through Internet, it will be amazing. The programme will also help cut down crime rates.

STL that makes power transmission and optic-fibre products has 11 manufacturing plants, out of which nine are in India and one each in China and Brazil. It has two plants in India that produce 20 million kilometres of fibre which will be expanded to 30 million by 2017.

LICians on Yoga Path

In Udaipur, India's No. 1 Insurance organization, LIC has chosen a unique path of Yoga for over all development of their employees under the leadership of their Senior Divisional Manager Sri BS Sharma, who is also a Yoga practitioner for quite a long time. As we know that the best motivator is example of motivated boss, Sri Sharma motivated his team to adopt Yoga as a daily routine of life. A good number of LICians in Udaipur are following their leader and started practicing Yoga early in the morning since International Yoga day.

Sri Sharma, who firmly believes in Karma Yoga, says that in our organization every employee/officer has full responsibility of his operational work area. He sets targets; he makes use of available resource in the most economical way to achieve expected results. To generate growth, it required imagination, creativity, good human relationship and healthy mind and body as well as dedication, discipline and balance in success and failure.

In Karma Yoga, we have to activate the traits of the subconscious mind for high achievements. These traits are certain attributes of our personality that influence us. These are – thinking, action, speech, behavior, mind and consequent success, health, happiness and prosperity.

He further adds we are all human beings with deficiencies which is exactly where Yogic practices can help us to improve. A balanced mind will mean improvement in speaking, listening and understanding. Therefore, karma Yoga can be ultimate path for us in LIC to understand and activate the subconscious mind & its positive traits which will result in more balanced and relaxed office atmosphere and better team work.
