vilas janve/ Udaipur

Creativity is endless as artists' creative minds always come up with innovative ideas and concept to deliver something unique to the world of art. Using different materials and mediums Indian artists have been producing their art works to express their words, thoughts, ideas and creativity to the world. Artists always experiment with their creativity using some or the other materials.

West Zone Cultural Centre, Udaipur, one of the seven Zonal Cultural Centres of India organised a ten days workshop with an objective to promote young artists of member states. In all 9 sculptors from Gujarat, Maharashtra and Rajasthan participated in the workshop under the curatorship of Sh. Mahendra Kadia (Renowned painter from Ahmadabad) at Shilpgram Udaipur. "Shilpgram is enriched with natural surroundings and offers congenial atmosphere for creative work" said Sh. Mahendra Kadia. He intended that the artists who work in industrial material such as fibreglass, PVC and steel should use Wood for carving their art works. Wood has good material quality, tone, texture, longevity, soft for carving and affordable value. It is very close nature.

Sh. Mahendra Kadia is also Honorary Director at L.&P Hatti Singh Visual Art Centre, Ahmadabad for 30 years and wanders around the world observing and organising art exhibitions. He has special love for Shilpgram as he has already organised Multimedia Sculpture Workshop in 2013. This ten days workshop concluded on August 6, 2015 where I had opportunity to talk to all participants while seeing their works. Sh. Nema Ram from Sumerpur, Pali Rajasthan created a huge Toy Ambassador car carved in cylindrical shaped wooden sculpture attached with a metal rod and handle. Inspired by the beauty, history and culture of Udaipur, he painted lakes, parks and arches on the car. The grains of wood made wheels very natural.

An "untitled" art piece created by Sh. Harshad Panchal, a self taught sculptor from Ahmadabad, Gujarat, who has been making sculptures for last 13 years, described the thirst of peacock keeping its beak open in search of rain. Two human hands are also shown stretched to hold clouds in the sculpture. "Our nature breaths around the rain" he said. Sh. Alay Mistry from Ahmadabad created family of parrots naming "Funny language of Parrots". He used American Pine wood for his creation. The art work was coloured and grinded so that one can enjoy the grains of wood. He works in multimedia but has created many art works in fibreglass and PVC.

Sh. Hardik Kansara, Post Graduate in Fine Arts from M.S. Univ., Baroda, Gujarat carefully selected wooden block and according to grains he created a face of a man giving expressions of Abdhut Ras (astorish). He pierced a small wooden branch in the ears depicting effect of harsh words. Ms. Priti Kahar, Post Graduate in Fine Arts from M.S. Univ., Baroda made a rectangular hole in the wooden block maintaining the texture of wood like a window. A tiny white coloured chair was placed with a painted shadow in back while thick hair coming downwards. Chair represents power. Her concept of this art work depicts that the ego would melt the chair (of power) even the shadow would also disappear. Sh. Vijay Kadam, BFA from Sir JJ School of Arts, Mumbai and MFA from MS Univ., Baroda, was highly inspired by scenic beauty of Udaipur. He is impressed by architecture, history, traditional art and crafts of Udaipur. "I have included the traditional art and craft in contemporary sense" He created a thick pillar with a human head. His crown gives look of thick city wall. A jharoka has a traditional wooden puppet while the other parts show cases other characteristics of Udaipur.

Sh. Sachin Chaudhari, sculptor from Mumbai created a tall art piece showing to parallel trees going up by giving special treatment of carving, chiselling, grinding and finishing. "I always have dialogue with the raw wood piece till it gets final shape. In the process I get suggestions from the object itself and accordingly I carve one portion removing other unimportant portion. My dialogue continues while making till final stage of display. Instead of chisel and hammer many times I use special carved (Half round) small vasula so that I can hold the sculpture with one hand while carving it. It gives feel of belongingness".

Sh. Ranjit Asarva, a Post Graduate from C.N. College, Ahmadabad created a jumbled water bottle placing a woodpecker on it with an intention to get some drinking water and named his sculpture as "Change in lifestyle". "While coming to Udaipur, I saw a bird drinking water from a plastic cup, so it struck to me that a woodpecker would pierce a water bottle to drink water, hence a wood this creation".

Rudra Thakur from Ahmadabad glorified motherhood in his sculpture of a pregnant lady. He painted toy animals to allure the child ready to come out. The art works created by the artists were displayed on the closing ceremony at Kala Vihar, Shilpgram, Udaipur which was witnessed by art connoisseurs.
