Lord Krishna most appropriate teacher to the mankind

Saturday, the September 5 of the year 2015 was an amazing day when the Teacher's Day fell on the birthday of lord Krishna who is the biggest and most appropriate teacher to the mankind. Krishna taught the very concept of Karma through which anything or any aim can be achieved. And smartly enough, Krishna also liberated the human from tensions of outcome. Krishna clearly mentioned that you go ahead and make best of the choices you have. Then proceed with the action ensuring you do not stray from the path of truth. And when you are done, just chill and relax. Leave the rest on me.

A teacher too gives same lesson to their pupils in most practical way. You attend classes, learn concepts, take exams, and then leave the results in the hands of a Teacher. Although results given by the teacher are most prominent and authoritative but that also again depend on actions taken by the student. So everything is interconnected. You are in a situation portrayed by the time you are living in. You select one path out of several available. Then you act upon inspired by best of your wisdom. And here your part ends. Rest depends upon the action you took. What you are expecting is your understanding but what results would be is the wisdom of the lord. The results are always best in situation and allows you to enjoy the fruit of your deed and gives you an opportunity to ponder over your actions that brought that result.

I strongly believe that these are the eternal principles that we should keep in mind. But due to the nature of our memory, we tend to forget that we owe results of our actions. We forget easily that what we are today doing is nothing but a base of our future conditions.

Perhaps this is why Teacher's Day falls every 365 days so that if we missed out on ethical things last year, better we wake up, gear up, and get along with the right path.

If you are cheating on someone for example, you are setting a cheat board for yourself. The difference between today and future would be only this that the future version would have more gravity than today. If you are helping someone today, you are laying a plot of future where you will be helped in much more ways.

So, this Teacher's Day, lets note down one thing clearly that you are responsible for your conditions that are today. And you have no control over it. But if you are still not doing right things today, you will be responsible for a bleak future. So this Teacher's Day, lets pledge that we will do best possible in best way in best of spirit so that we today make the life easy for others and then then Krishna will make life much easier in your future.

Minister agrees to cut school time, fill all vacant posts but not OK

Jaipur : Extending an olive branch to agitating teachers in the state, primary education minister Vasudev Devnani on Saturday partially agreed to their demands and urged them to end the ongoing agitation.

Devnani announced the compulsory six- and a-half hour school time would be reduced by 20 minutes.

He also conceded to fill all vacant posts immediately and conduct a yearly review of the ongoing staffing pattern.

"On the occasion of teacher's day, we have agreed to meet the demands of the agitating teachers. Most importantly, the new school timings would be now of 6 hours and 10 minutes, which is similar to the timings of CBSE schools and Kendriya Vidyalayas. The school timing will remain same for both summer and winter," the education minister said.

Around 32 teachers' associations across the state had been agitating against the increase in school time, staffing pattern and no appointment on vacant posts.

Addressing a press conference, Devnani appealed to the teachers' union to refrain from indulging in "trade unionism" and urged them to cooperate with the education department.

"Rajasthan cannot progress without the combined effort of teachers and (the) state machinery. It is my humble request to them (teachers' unions) to not to inculcate the trend of trade unionism in education," he said. The minister also promised assured career promotion (ACP), promotion of teachers through district promotion committee (DPC) and implementation of transfer policy.

"We have plans to fill 89,000 vacant posts across the state in the near future that includes 30,000 posts through REET for third division teachers and 13,000 lecturers for colleges. Also, one lakh teachers will get ACP and many teachers will get promotion through DPC. Also, (the) transfer policy will be reviewed and most probably be implemented from the next session," said Devnani.

Hitting out at the previous

Congress-led governments at the state and Centre, the minister said the BJP government wishes to "undo the damage done in the field of education by the earlier government."

"Admission figures had hit a new low in Rajasthan in the session 2010-11. This year, we have managed to admit more than 8 lakh students thereby repairing the damage (the) Gehlot government had done to the education (system). Also, Kapil Sibal's decision to not to fail students till 8th standard has seriously affected the quality of education and therefore we wish to review and recall that decision," said Devnani.

The All Rajasthan School Teachers' Association, however, dubbed the assurances made by the minister as "bluff". "Reducing 20 minutes of school time is not what we are agitating against. These promises had been made by the minister in the past as well, but none of them were implemented. We will continue to protest until our demands are met... (the) minister is free to call us names," said ARSTA president Ram Krishna Agarwal.

Earlier, at a state-level function at Birla auditorium, governor Kalyan Singh and Devnani felicitated 43 teachers from across the state for their inspiring works and dedication towards teaching. "Education is the pillar of any society as it is responsible for the future. Teachers should mould students in a way that they are beneficial to the country. I salute the dedicated teachers of Rajasthan for their sincerity and hard work," said Singh.

Anamika was born with a silver spoon in her mouth is the term normally used for girls born in affluent family but for a lady like Anamika, it has to put this way that a silver spoon turned into diamond plated in platinum as she grew up. The family was not just wealthy financially but taught her the true values of humanity, relationships and the power of love. As a child she was the favourite of the three generation living together, her grandparents, her parents and uncles and aunts and her brothers. Such was her intellect that during her adolescent years she was called the "grandmother" of her home. Her family was God loving and religious due to which she learnt to read "Ramayana" from her grandmother at an early age of 6.

Herbalife Launches Third Phase of Casa Herbalife Program with Smile Foundation

Bangalore : The Herbalife Family Foundation (HFF), a non-profit organization dedicated to improving the lives of children by helping charitable organizations provide healthy nutrition to children in need, today announced the launch of the third phase of Casa Herbalife program with Smile Foundation, a national development organization that works for underprivileged children and youth in education, healthcare, livelihoods and women's empowerment. During the third phase unveiled today in Bangalore, the HFF will extend grants to provide nutritional support to 1,000 children across India, through Smile Foundation's 'Mission Education' program.

The third phase beneficiaries spread across Smile Foundation Mission Education centers, including in the North (New Delhi, Gurgaon in Haryana and Chandigarh), East (Kolkata in West Bengal), West (Baroda in Gujarat and Thane in Maharashtra) and South (Chennai in Tamil Nadu, Hyderabad in Andhra Pradesh and Bangalore in Karnataka). The first and second phases of the program were launched in Mumbai & Chennai in 2011 and 2013, respectively, to cater to 2,000 children in these regions. Overall, the HFF and Smile Foundation joint initiative will benefit 3,000 children in three phases.

Speaking on the occasion, Ajay Khanna, Vice President and Country Head, Herbalife International India Pvt Ltd said: "Two key factors which play a pivotal role in the growth and development of a child are a healthy body and a healthy mind. The quality of life during childhood will be a defining factor in success as an adult. As a global nutrition company, we advocate the importance of nutrition for a healthy and active life; hence we have strengthened our association with Smile Foundation through this third phase of the program after launching the first and second phases. We are happy that 3,000 children will benefit from this partnership."

Mr. Vikram Singh Verma, Chief Operating Officer Smile Foundation said: "We are happy to continue this relationship into the third phase and we believe that together we can deliver significant benefits to the children. Smile Foundation believes that whether you are addressing healthcare, poverty, population control, unemployment or human rights, there's no better place to start than in the corridors of education. More than 200,000 children have directly benefited from the Mission Education program since 2002. At present, the program is directly reaching out to 16,500 children, through 70 projects in 21 states across India.
