Solaris hosted the maiden management festival

Udaipur : The two-day long extravaganza, entirely conceptualized and managed by students of the institute, is designed so as to keep some of India's most brilliant minds engaged and the first day was certainly a testament to that fact. The first day saw a plethora of events including two summits, The Leadership Summit and Samvaah - The Marketing Conclave, and various competitions including a short film competition. The summits were attended by leaders of industry and eminent personalities along with students of reputed institutions throughout the country. The competitions too ranged far and wide including Juxtapose, an ad-making competition and Auteur's labyrinth, the short film making event. A staggering amount of prize money is on offer through the course of 23 events scattered across 2 days. The competitions boast of total prize money of upwards of Rs 4 lakhs which is a staggering amount for competitions primarily testing the students' proficiency in their managerial studies.

The event began with a Welcome Address by Prof. Janat Shah - Director, IIM Udaipur. Prof. Shah's address laid emphasis on the advantages of a young institution and outlined the importance of the role of a fest like Solaris in the larger vision of the college. He emphasized on three objectives of IIM Udaipur's existence i.e. Research focus, transformation of students and making difference to the Udaipur community.

The event presented an enthralling keynote address from distinguished luminaries like Dr. Subir Gokarn - the current Director-Research, Brookings India and also the youngest ever former Deputy Governor of RBI. His speech was regarding the macroeconomic situation of India and delved into the intricacies of various parameters that affect the economic situation. He also compared India globally and stated the challenges, positives and the reasons why India has the capacity to become the global leader. Regarding India's economic outlook, he commented that "Domestic tail winds are strong but there are global head winds", which certainly summarized various aspects of his speech and it was a privilege to have him here at IIM Udaipur.

The Leadership Summit is a student-driven initiative which is organized by the Media and Industry Cell (MiIC) of IIMU. It was the fourth edition of the summit and as with previous years, this year too saw industry stalwarts gracing the stage.

The umbrella theme for the Leadership Summit 2015 was "Evolve. Innovate. Reflect. Reinvent". The theme was decided keeping in mind the evolving nature of businesses and economy at large. The stage was graced by business dignitaries such as Mr. M.S. Unnikrishnan (MD & CEO, Thermax Limited), Mr. Sandeep Budhiraja (Country Head, MMR Research Worldwide), Mr. Ajay Gupta (Director - Chief Operations Officer at Decimal Point Analytics) and Mr. Manish Rastogi (Head - Strategy at Metro Cash & Carry India Private Limited).

The first keynote address was followed by an address from another behemoth of the business world, Mr. M.S. Unnikrishnan. A recipient of the 'Asia Innovator Award' and a passionate advocate of a sustaining ecosystem of innovation and technology for national resurgence, he is also involved in making initiatives in improving the system of technical education.

WZCC gave new ...

Zonal Cultural Centers had arranged Food Court of traditional cuisines besides day time performance by the folk and tribal artists, crafts workshops, street performers and kite flying etc. Every evening, the main stage had performance of tribal, folk classical and contemporary star artistes of the ZCCs and SNA.

I was fortunate to visit this mega cultural event for two days. I was invited by West Zone Cultural Centre to host their show on 6th November. I was lucky to watch performance of North Central Zone Cultural Centre, Allahabad on November, 5. This show included Gudum Baja, Diwari and Rayee (M.P.), Terataal and Kalbelia (Rajasthan), Ghoomar (Haryana) and Mayur and Brijki Holi (U.P.). The star artiste Smt. Malini Avasthi (Lucknow) was at her best rendering folk songs in Awadhi, Bhojpuri and Hindi. Her involvement with the audience was phenomenal. The show was intelligently hosted by the Director, NCZCC, Dr. Gaurav Krishna Bansal. The chief guest Dr. Mahesh Sharma, Minister of Culture, Government of India honored Malini ji and other artistes. Evening of November, 6 proved to be the great in terms of performance and audience participation. West Zone Cultural Centre, Udaipur with rich experience of Shipgram Utsav presented the best show.

The chief guest for the evening, Shri Manohar Parrikar, Minister of Defence, Government of India, was welcomed through a spectacular tunnel of 'Ghodmodni' artists from Goa ('Ghode' means 'horse' and 'Modni' means 'gyrations and dance-like movements', and is literally a dance involving horse-like movements).

The concert started with exclusive folk singing of Langa and Mangariyan musicians rendering "Gorband" and "Nimbuda" exhibiting tremendous talent. Dekhni Dance from Goa showed fine blending of Hindu and Christian cultures. The music of this traditional folk song "Hun saiba punteli veta" inspired Indian Cinema. "Dhal Talwar Raas" by the Mer Rajput community of Porbandar, Gujarat was full of heroic actions where the 'Ang Ger' dance performed by the Rajputs and Rajpurohiths of sillon (Barmer) became spectacular. Artistes in traditional attire created atmosphere of Holi, the festival of colours. Umar Faruq and his clan from Alwar rendered humorous Mewati folk song "Turr" to entertain audience. The group also was applauded for playing of their peculiar instrument "Bhapang". "Kalbelia" dance by Seema Sapera and group mesmerized spectators. 'Ghode Modni' dance exhibited artistes riding on dummy horses with sword in their hands creating valour. Dangi tribal artistes from south Gujarat presented the most energetic 'Dangi Holi Nrutya' wherein they swiftly made different formations and human pyramids keeping spectators spell bound. Sidis of Bharuch, Gujarat presented 'Sidi Dhamal', a ritual dance performed on the Urs of their prophet Baba Gaur. Originated from Africa, Sidis are not only masters of rhythm but also ace drummers. The audience was astonished to watch their act of tossing coconuts in the air and cracking on their heads.

The item which received standing ovation was "Jankar". This was conceived by Shri M. Furqan Khan, Director, WZCC and choreographed by Shri Taneraj Singh Sodha, Asst. Dir. WZCC. 'Jankar' imbibed folk and tribal instruments of member states. These were Kamayacha, Sindhi Sarangi, Satara, Algoza, Murri, Been, Dholak, Khadtal, Morchang, Rawanhatta, Mashak, Bhapang, Dhol, Nagada from Rajasthan, Kansale, Ghumat, Tash, Dhol, Tutarif from Goa, Sambal, Dholki, Tuntune from Maharashtra and Mugarman, Musurana, Tasha, Surmai, Kahalya, Dholki, Dhol and Shankh from Gujarat. Here all the musical instruments left their indigenous quality aside to merge with other genre and created a memorable ensemble.

The musical ensemble started from low key and gradually started picking up tempo which reached climax involving all the dancers to reappear on stage with newer group composition. The Secretary, Culture, Government of India Shri. N. K. Sinha and his wife, Smt. Sinha personally came on stage to congratulate team of WZCC. The extraordinary concert concluded with the presentation by the world fame percussionist Shri Taufiq Qureshi and his group. Shri Taufiq Qureshi, son and disciple of the legendary Tabla maestro Ustad Allarakha displayed great variety of percussions. His performances showcased the traditional flavour and intricacies of Indian rhythm, interwoven with the sparkle of his phenomenal command over contemporary world percussions.

West Zone Cultural Centre, Udaipur's team was congratulated by the visitors and officials of MOC for presenting a show which was entertaining at the same time educative.

As the host of the show I witnessed happiness among the audiences and artistes. Folk performers can always give their best. What is needed is the right opportunity. Ministry of Culture along with the seven ZCCs and SNA deserve appreciation.
