Theta : Healing Arts

We can train our mind to immediately think positive whenever we face a stressful situation. In a way we can say we are not two separate entities, body and mind rather it is body mind. Our thought to be handled both ways at the same time. Influence our physical health and our physical health will influence our thought so anything can start in the body and can enter into the mind or vice-versa. Most of our problem have two edges to them, they can be tackled through the mind & through the body as some health problems are psychosomatic. When you lack physical strength to do anything the mind can do nothing except agreeing. As a result, you end up being obese and issues grow in life. Either you change your mildest or change your physical action of doing change your physical action of doing something when you feel lazy. Theta Healing, in a way helps to direct your mind over body and take you out from the unfortunate scenario of body over mind. Some teaching to theta healing helps to control your anger in simple way like whenever the situation provokes anger in you, just start taking deep breaths. Try it and you will not be able to get angry why ? There are two reasons. If you start taking deep breaths, it is impossible for you to get angry ; if you are consciously taking deep breaths then the anger cannot express itself as your theta state mind shifts form anger to breathing.
