Political leaders pay rich tribute to AB Bardhan

New Delhi : Cutting across party lines, political leaders paid rich tributes to CPI leader A B Bardhan who passed away in New Delhi yesterday. Mr Bardhan had been admitted to GB Pant hospital in New Delhi after a paralytic stroke last month. Mr Bardhan steered the CPI during the turbulent period of coalition politics at national level in the 1990s.

President Pranab Mukherjee expressed heartfelt condolences on passing away of Bardhan. Prime Minister Narendra Modi said, he will always remember Bardhan as a passionate communist, fully committed to his ideology and principles.

Congress President Sonia Gandhi said, in his demise, not only the CPI but the entire nation has lost a leader, who championed the cause of the dispossessed and marginalized throughout his life.

CPI (M) General Secretary Sitaram Yechury said Bardhan's wisdom, experience and guidance will be missed. BJP leader Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi described his death as a huge loss to Indian politics. West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said, she is saddened at the passing away of Bardhan. JD(U) chief Sharad Yadav said the CPI stalwart had epitomized the continuous struggle for the cause of the masses and was a tall leader of the Left movement.

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar said an era has ended with the demise of Bardhan, who had always worked for the poor and downtrodden. Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Jayalalitha said the CPI stalwart was the epitome of political decency and selfless service. Mr Bardhan's cremation will take place tomorrow at Nigambodh Ghat in New Delhi.

Struggles of Middle-class continues despite of falling inflation

New Delhi

India's wholesale as well as shop-end prices kept low through 2015 in keeping with a wider global trend, as crude slipped to new lows, but the middle-class is not cheering.

The cooling prices mask a silent surge in cost of services and non-essential products, with millions of middle-class households now spending more than half their monthly budget on maintaining their living standards.

Retail prices of almost all everyday products and services - restaurant meals, movie tickets, hair cuts to lipsticks - have risen sharply, signaling India's inability to control rising cost of living, partly stoked by growing income and aspirations.

A comparison of November data with that from January 2013 paints a worrying picture of galloping costs of living and services that have escaped policymakers' attention.

The monthly price index for "prepared meals" - a proxy not just for restaurant rates but also a cup of tea bought from a roadside seller - has risen nearly 9% on an average over the last three years. Deodorants, lipsticks and other lifestyle products are up by a monthly average of about 5% since January 2013. You are likely to pay ` 360 or more for a hair cut that cost ` 300 three years ago.

Teachers Are Taught Decision-Making At College Of Technical Education (CTE)

Udaipur : Decision-making is one of the very important aspect of human life. In the broader sense we can say that our destiny is affected by our decisions. In our day-to-day life we take a lot of decisions. Some decisions are having lesser impact while few decisions have the potential to transform the life. As a teacher when we are interacting with the students and taking decisions for them the responsibility of decision-making becomes large. Students are taking guidance from their schools and colleges and regards their teachers advise as one of the final statement. The teachers have huge responsibility for shaping the future of society.

Keeping above factors in mind, College of technical education (CTE) organised seminar on decision-making by Dr Arvinder Singh. Dr Singh addressed the gathering of more than hundred teachers across South Rajasthan and making them aware about the systematic tools of decision-making. In the seminar the importance of whole brain thinking along with balancing of heart and mind was detailed for effective decision-making.

With this patented tool of Seven Effective Thinking Patterns (SETP) Dr Singh shared systematic step-by-step approach for taking decisions which not only evaluates external factors but at the same time also incorporates factors of emotional intelligence, critical analysis along with factual data collection. Director of the Institute along with faculty members appreciated the seminar and honoured Dr Arvinder Singh.
