

Parenting: A ray of hope to build a new world

Children are hope of society and many people regard children as precious. Good parenting can build the future of our society. We celebrate when a child takes birth in our family. From that day parents start building his future.

Its a huge responsibility to give our child a bright and prosperous future. But is this enough?

My mother used to tell me when I was a kid that children are like mirrors; they can be easily broken so we should always handle them with care. We can see our own childhood in their lives.

Modern world has put some obstacles in front of us. New generation is tech savvy and smart enough to understand everything. WE can not make them fools by saying that GOD has created them. They need scientific and justified reasons for every reply.

Parents often complaint that their children don't listen to them or they are neglecting their duties. Suicidal cases among children have increased in recent years. This problem has become deeper than we can imagine.

Every problem has solution in its roots. Since many years we are not nurturing our children as children; we are making them machines and robots. They not only carry heavy bags on their shoulders but also our ambitions and expectations. I have not seen a single parent who is interested in growth and skillful development of his or her child.

When a child is raised with a notion that he must enter in a prestigious school at any cost or when he grows, his academic graph must go up, he must follow rules of his school teachers and his only goal is to get A plus in each subject. When a child enters into adolescence he looks upto his parents but they neglect his simple problems. Parents usually ignore their children's problems in the name of generation gap. A child loses his vision in order to fulfill his parents vision. A bamboo plant takes almost five years to shoot up but we don't give our children that much time. At the age of two we give them heavy burdens of books and knowledge. But unfortunately this knowledge is not practical.

In Indian society adults have powers to control their children's lives. I am not an advocate of children but i am really worried to see the changing face of our society. We are teaching our kids to become Doctors and Engineers but we are not ready to accept the fact that each child is born with some special skills. Can you imagine a society which is full of Doctors and Engineers but there is no artist, painter or teacher in that society.

There are families who care only that their children prepare for entrance exams and break all the records. Their children have forgotten to learn the basic rules of society. Children have no time to play on roads, they can't fight or quarrel with their neighbour's children.

Parents have started over pampering their children and this way harming the mental growth of their children.

Animals look after their children upto certain age and after raising them carefully they leave them to make them independent. But human beings are totally different; they raise their children as assets. We are blocking the healthy growth of children which is leading them to dark world. Its really important to understand and change according to time. Young children need attention and time of their parents. It's our duty to ask them about their problems which they are facing while growing up. Suicides can be stopped by becoming friends to our children. Education is important but education should be fruitful. We can not let our children die like this.

Numbers and marks are important but life is more important than any other thing. If your child is not giving you proper response than this could be an alarming sign. Ask those parents who have recently lost their children. I am not blaming that all parents are bad. But we must not over look this problem in ourselves. Other problems may cause damage but fact is that we can not change the entire world. We can change ourselves first. Children learn from us so we must take responsibility to change our behaviour. Children are innocent and wonderful creation of God. We must save them for our future. Only our parenting can give ray of hope to build a better world for our children. Talk to your children and understand their feelings; after all they are the hope of our future.
