

Sindhi Bazar Ayurveda hospital now at global map

Udaipur : Ayurveda hospital at Sindhi Bazar in Udaipur city, is attracting patients not only from around the division but world wide. This hospital has the distinction of being the State's first and only model Ayurveda Aushadhalaya where more than 21 Lakh patients have been treated in last 7 years. Recently, a delegation of medical experts from France and Germany visited the hospital to get details on the PanchKarma therapy. They interacted with the patients, observed the working, took feedbacks and decided to apply our working model at their respective places" said Vaidya Shobalal Audichya, the hospital incharge generally no public ayurveda hospital, has a panchkarma unit, but persuasion and determination of the staff here made it all possible. Things that are not easy to be sanctioned from government is raised through charity by willing institutions and capable individuals. In this way, from an uninteresting and less visited ordinary hospital built in 1967, the center has transformed itself with looks and competency of any private medical facility. Thousands of patients have been benefited of the complex Panchakarma treatment which includes Shirodhara, Nasyakarma, Shirobasti, Katibasti, Janubasti, Snehan, Swedan, Steam bath, Vaman, Vivechan, Basti etc. " The center being situated in the heart of the city, often foreigners walk in with petty complaints and walk out rejuvenated after experiencing the wonders of Ayurveda" Audichya said. Unlike most government health centers that runs late from the scheduled timing, this one begins much earlier at 5.15 am precisely for more than 100 people coming for Yoga practice everyday. A Medicine bank for needy- In addition to the free medicines provided by the state govt. the hospital has set up its own medicine bank with the help of donors.

Kachhabali created history

Udaipur : Kachhabali folks, especially the women have created history. With a thumping majority i.e 67.11 percentage of voters having casted their votes to shut down the only licensed liquor shop in the area, this nondescript gram panchayat located in Bhim tehsil of Rajasmand is set to become the first alcohol-free-zone of state, though it may take some days for the official announcement to be made. On Tuesday, in the voting held by the excise department, of the total 2886 voters in 9 wards, 2039 people exercised their franchise rights. 1937 persons casted votes in favour of close down of the shops while only 33 affirmed in negative. Thirty three votes were rejected. " This is an indication of rising awareness and women power. The Nasha Mukti campaign have been going on for quite some time in the area but perhaps they didn't know how to proceed with the norms. We informed and facilitated them and they followed it" said Archana Singh, Rajasmand collector. A report from the tehsildar now would be submitted to the collector who would forward it to the excise department asking to seal the liquor shop for ever. The women in the village had been making sustained efforts to close down the liquor shops past many years but were unsuccessful due to money and political patronage. However, after a massive campaign, people turned up at the polling booths on Tuesday throughout the day to cast their votes to shun alcohol. Polling was held at three booths and people kept dropping from 8 am to 5 pm to cast votes. Elderly ladies who were unable to walk up themselves were seen in carried by their family members inside the booths.

Implement 85% Pictorial warning on Both side on on tobacco products

Jaipur : The Public Interest Litigation (Writ Petition) no. 8680/15, along with the contempt petition 800/15 titled as Rahul Joshi versus Union of India and Rahul Joshi versus Bhanu Pratap Sharma were listed today before Chief Justice Sunil Mittal.

Counsel for the Union of India submitted that they have brought rules of 2014 into force from today, 85% pictorial health is implemented on both sides of tobacco packets.

Counsel for the Petitioner Mr. G. S. Bapna and S.R. Joshi contended that vide order dated 3rd July, 2015 the rules of 2014 were already brought into force. Now the question of enforcement of these rules is to be examined by the court. In spite of clear directions of the court in the order dated 3rd July and also subsequent order dated 28th July passed in contempt petition. The Centre and State Government do not intentionally enforcing the rules, which is wilful disobedience of the directions of the court.

On hearing both sides, the Court expressed displeasure for not enforcing the rules. The Court verbally directed to enforce the rules immediately and put the matter for hearing after 6 weeks.

The petitioner pointed out that the market is still 40 percent Rahul Joshi pictorial warning on tobacco products is readily available. Nirmataeaeen while the tobacco was still enough time for it in the past. In which they had to consume their old stock.

The court expressed displeasure over tobacco products, 85 percent said that so far, why not implement pictorial warnings. At the same time, he said the emphasis on awareness.

The court said the Ministry of Health to immediately implement pictorial warnings. The next hearing in the case will be six weeks later.

Tobacco companies are violating. Pictorial warnings on tobacco products in the country, 85 percent of the tobacco companies should be obliged to apply to the government, warning of new products available in the market. Six pre-notification by the Ministry of Health has been able to not apply to tobacco companies. While for them it was enough time.

Mr Sanjay Seth, Chief operating Officer of Voice of Tobacco Victims campaign (VOTV) said the Rajasthan High Court and the decision of the Ministry of Health of the Health Ministry for Health is in the interest of the public. India has about 12 million people die every year in the pictorial warnings will reduce these figures. Rajasthan's 350 new tobacco use will also reduce. Now all the tobacco companies in the country, both on their own tobacco and 85 percent order to implement pictorial warnings have been in the past but now the Court has given final judgment. Now the government will have to implement it by the tobacco companies.

Indian Asthma Care Society and VOTV pateron Dharameer Katewa said pictorial warnings on tobacco products is beneficial for the public to apply. This will reduce tobacco user. Pictorial warnings on tobacco product market in which 40 percent are that is illegal by law. The government needs to work on.

Rahul Joshi petitioner and his counsel pleaded the case S.R. Joshi and G.S. Bafna advocate. Sunita The victim had died of cancer at 1 April 2015. 85 pictorial warnings on all tobacco products from the government, he had sought to apply. Although he had died on 1 April 2015.

Book Review

Life narratives are important literary creations. They exhibit the signature of the writer as well as the stamp of the person portrayed. More often than not, they are very personal accounts penned down with certain degree of passion. The writer not only knows the person portrayed but is also in some way related to the object of portrayal. Thus, in no case life narratives claim any objectivity. Rather, they are known for their innate familiarity of content and style.

The book My Mother has been written by Dr. Anita Luniya Kothari, Lecturer in English, College Education, Rajasthan. It is a biography very beautifully written and dedicated to Sh. Fateh Singh Ji Luniya, Late father of the author. The book has been published by Kumar and Company, Ajmer, Rajasthan on 22nd May, 2014.

A Daughter's Graphic Tribute to her Mother : G.K. Sukhwal

A loving tribute to a mother on her 81st birthday, the book has been a great effort to gather past memories and thoughts. Beginning with the historical facts of the family members the author gives us detailed information of the bringing up of the mother. The marriage and family life of the mother, birth of three children, their marriages, birth of grand children etc. have been very beautifully portrayed. Joining service at India Jute Mills, Jagatdal, by the father of the author and living in an Anglo - Indian environment completely changed the life of the mother and in turn of the author too. A very hard worker, not shirking her duties, disciplined about time management, playing with the children, encouraging them for studies as well as hobbies was her way of living. After doing her chores of the house hold, mother used to spend her time reading books, enjoying long walks, tending the garden, tennis parties, badminton launch parties, watching movies at cinema halls, and various other activities. Her passion for cricket was legendary. Illness did strike mother and she underwent several surgeries for various diseases. She has displayed abominable courage and inner strength. After passing away of the author's father in 1994 the mother felt very lonely and waited long for time to heal. The following lines from the poem written by the author at this juncture express her grief.

That forgetting, even for a minute, Would be akin to betrayal. The mother has since then renounced a few things and turned spiritual. Following Lord Krishna and Buddhist practices, she turned religious. She takes care of all the family members moving from one place to another. She donates, likes to read religious books, has spiritual inclinations and takes deep interest in chanting. She still has the large-heartedness to adjust to all circumstances. Self sufficient nature makes her to cause least trouble to those around her. When the author too underwent surgery recently she was a nurse par excellence.

The book is full of beautiful and attractive photographs which provide us a very clear picture of persons and places. There is a map at the end which gives us an idea of the Central Provinces and Berar, India 1903. A complete family tree too is provided at the end which gives us an idea of the complete family at a glance. The book engrosses us from the very beginning and captures our attention till the end. The mother has shaped the life of the author in every aspect. The impact of the mother on the life of the author can be easily felt. The language of the book is informal and is drawn from the author's very normal routine life. There is little effort to embellish and bring in flowery expressions. The diction is appropriate to the theme and the flow is lucid. The author appears to be narrating the tale of her mother like a grandmother's tale and the reader is enthused with the curiosity of knowing " what next". A slim volume, the book has the quality to absorb the reader's attention till he reaches the last page, often in one sitting.
