Smart India Hackathon 2017 Organized at Techno India NJR Udaipur

Automatic Railway Level Crossing Info Application Stood First

Udaipur: Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday called upon Indian youth to innovate new ideas and use technology to bring about the changes that the country needs while urging them not to let their setbacks dampen their spirits. "Technology has made things so much simpler. This is an era of 'Internet of Things'," he said in his address at the Smart India Hackathon 2017. "To solve problems of the common people, IT solutions are necessary," he added. Encouraging the youth to fulfill their dreams, the prime minister said that while innovating new ideas, they may face setbacks but they should "not let those setbacks dampen your spirits". Modi also cautioned them not to compromise with quality. "A series of issues have been placed before our youth to work on. The issues are challenging but this is also an opportunity. There is a need to use technology more and innovate more. We live in a technology-driven era," PM added. This is important because our 65% population is below 35 and India is emerging as youth icon in the world our youth will have to resolve of major problem through the innovation & creativity. It is a matter of pleasure that after 15 hours regular working the symbols of slackness is not found in any face. A success of democracy is basically based on public participation in development. Democracy doesn't mean that once you casted the votes you have given an contact for political party for committed to channelize your creation in better governance. I have a view that we can change our society with help of technology that with IT. 3D technology may emerge as foundation stone for development we have to understand the difference between knowledge and skill, with the help of knowledge we can understand the concept and basics while with the help of skill we can sharpen the knowledge the further shared his view on SEO with skill engagement optimization. After his speech, Modi interacted with engineering students across the several centres listening to their suggestions about their various problems and also asking them some questions. It may recalled that During "Smart India Hackathon", 598 problems were identified and posted by 29 central government departments, including issues like geo-fencing of airports, online toll collection, smart traffic management, cyber attacks and smart drones to make the airspace safer.
