Diwali Greetings From President and Vice President

The President of India, Shri Ram Nath Kovind, has sent his greetings to fellow citizens on the eve of Diwali.

In his message, the President has said, "On the happy and joyous occasion of Diwali, I extend warm greetings and best wishes to all fellow citizens.

The festival of Diwali celebrates the victory of light over darkness, goodness over evil and justice over injustice. On this occasion, let us initiate efforts towards illuminating the lives of all with joy and prosperity and spread the light of love and fraternity. Let us share our happiness with the needy.

Let us resolve to celebrate Diwali in a clean and pollution free manner as well as build a healthy, prosperous and sensitive nation and society".

The Vice President of India, Shri M. Venkaiah Naidu has greeted the people of our country on the auspicious occasion of Deepawali, the festival of lights. In a message, he said that Deepawali signifies the victory of good over evil and encourages us to emulate the noble and virtuous qualities of Lord Rama. May this festival light up our lives and usher in peace, prosperity and happiness in our lives, he added. Following is the text of Vice President's message:

"I extend my warm greetings and good wishes to the people of our country on the auspicious occasion of Deepawali, the festival of lights.

Deepawali signifies the victory of good over evil and encourages us to emulate the noble and virtuous qualities of Lord Rama. Also associated with Goddess Lakshmi - the harbinger of wealth, grace and prosperity - Deepawali is celebrated on a grand scale not only in India but all over the world by the people of Indian origin.

Deepawali celebrations play an important role in promoting amity and harmony amongst the people. May this festival light up our lives and usher in peace, prosperity and happiness in our lives."

Diwali Dazzles

Udaipur, as usual, celebrated the festival of light with great enthusiasm. The homes and markets were properly decked up and people spent good time and amount on shopping. Market presented a plethora of options to the buyers and that is why even people who went out just for a walk across the market returned with bags full of stuff. Shopping malls are now a regular part of shopping culture in Udaipur and people now use these huge and one-stop shop destinations to do some real and planned shopping. But then, the city is a traditional town at its heart so the first choice for people remains the traditional and set markets like Sooraj Pole, Hathi Pole, Bapu Bazar, Ashwini Market, Walled City, and so on. Amid all the noise about using or rejecting Chinese stuff, people used less lighting or candles to light up their houses besides the traditional earthen diyas. Other decoratives like Rangoli stencils, stickers, and plastic stuff were used as usual to make the house stand out. The traditional rangoli made by terracotta and lime paint still is done as part of inviting goddess Lakshmi to the house for prosperity. Albeit most of the ways to celebrate Diwali have got modernized but the soul of the festival still is the same as before. The ingredients of Pooja are now ordered online but the process to do the pooja is still traditional. Arti might be played on the phone but the sentiments with the arti are still pious and powerful. The tradition of sharing sweets with the neighbors and friends is still very much in practice in Udaipur while in most of the metro cities, people simply courier sweets and wish each other through messages and calls. Though the city is transforming into a metro city but it has managed to keep the roots, which is indeed a commendable thing.
