WCL provides Solar Powered Irrigation Project

Udaipur: Wonder Cement Limited has provided solar powered irrigation facility to the Gram Panchayat of Phalwa for watering plants at the Panchfal Udhyaan. This Solar powered set contains a 10 HP pump set facility.

The Panchfal Udhyaan at Dhanora is developed by Wonder Cement in collaboration with the MGNREGA scheme of rural development. There are more than 6000 fruit plants. WCL has provided wire fencing, water storage tank, solar lights, etc. for sustainability of the project. Regular maintenance is done through MGNREGA which is generating local employment for the villagers.

On this occasion, Nitin Jain (VP, Commercial) from Wonder Cement handed over the solar powered irrigation project to the Sarpanch and also distributed Parinda (pot for feeding birds) to the locals. Wonder Cement has been providing these pots to villagers for the last five years to promote awareness of bird protection and to supply birds with water and food. This has encouraged people for caring & nurturing of birds.

Speaking on this occasion Nitin Jain informed that earlier the caretakers at Panchfal Udhyaan depended on grid power supply to get water for irrigation which was insufficient for the complete Udhyaan. With the application of this project, uninterrupted water supply will be available for use.

III District Conference of All India Progressive Women's Association (AIPWA) organized successfully Comrade Premlata elected new District Secretary

Udaipur: Third District Conference of AIPWA, Udaipur was organized on 11th May, 2018 at the training center of Aastha in Bedla, Udaipur. The conference was attended by members from Salumber, Sarada, Pratapgarh, Ajmer, Jaipur and from different parts of Udaipur district. It began by the hoisting of the flag of AIPWA by the state secretary Prof. Sudha Chaudhary and offering tributes to the martyrs who laid down their lives in the struggle for women rights. The Open session was addressed by the office bearers of AIPWA as well as by the guests invited for the session. Prof. Sudha Chaudhary, state secretary of AIPWA welcomed the guests and laid down the agenda of the conference. She said that despite the rise of capitalism, the mindset of the ruling class is still feudal and is reflected in the atrocities on women. She said that the state is shockingly supporting the perpetrators of violence on women and siding with the rapists. The schemes of welfare of women are insufficient and are being implemented half-heartedly. The questions of employment, education, health, security, freedom to move about fearlessly and representation in elected bodies through 33% reservation are still unanswered. Therefore, the only way ahead for women is a united struggle for their rights. President of AIPWA, Rajasthan Bhanwari from Ajmer said that the incidents of rape and other types of violence have increased despite stringent laws. This is because the implementing agencies are either weak or they do not want to provide justice to women. She said that the MLAs and Ministers of BJP are involved in rapes and are taking our rallies holding national flags in their hands. It is shameful. She called for unity of women. Secretary of AIPWA, Jaipur Ms. Manjulata spoke on the notion of patriarchy and expressed the desire to eradicate it from human society. Prof. Nafisa Hatimi, Prof. Minakshi Jain, Prof. Zenab Bano and Comrade Ganpati Devi, secretary, AIPWA, Udaipur expressed their solidarity with AIPWA. Jini Shrivastava, founder of Ekal Maila Sangathan and founder member of Aastha expressed her pension for the widows and

He called for a global unity of working class which can ensure justice for women too. Ms. Raju Kaswan and team presented the AIPWA anthem written by late comrade Srilatha Swaminathan. Prof. Farhat Bano convened the session which was chaired by Dr. Pramila Singhvi.

The open session was followed by the delegate session in which Prof. Sudha Chaudhary presented the report of the organization and was followed by debate on the report. A new fifteen member district executive committee was elected in which comrade Premlata was elected district secretary. After this session all the delegates moved to the collector's office and submitted a memorandum of demands.

anguish and concern at the increasing incidents of rape in India. She said that it was alarming. Communal divide, violence against women and widespread unemployment are the biggest threats to our democratic and plural culture, she said. Guest of Honour Prof. H.S.Chandala demanded that senior citizens specially women should be linked with price index. He said that agriculture, education and health sectors where women are largely employed are being neglected and privatized. All women organizations should fight for these along with peasants and labour.

GURUGRAM'S NATIVE RUNKI TO PERFORM AT INDIAN HIGH COMMISSION LONDON

Gurugram: 33 Years mother and a senior Executive with MNC Company Runki is all set to Enthral British & Indian Audience in London with her mesmerizing folk performance.

Time to clear the stage once again for the house of talent Ms Runki Goswami, known for her Telegu compositions such as "Ni andelasandarilo" and "Teen maar beatulakki" and Hindi compositions "kabhieajnaibithi" and "Ab naahichanda" and also bringing that nostalgia alive by singing Farida Khanum, Salil Choudhury, Geeta Dutt and various others.

Taking the talent baton forward and making India proud, Runki will now dazzle the music lover with her spellbinding performance but this time on international stage as an especial Invitee by India High Commission, London.

With her controlled and mastered vocals, Runki will set up a majestic mood with her journey from north to south through a myriad of rustic folk songs of India in its original form; thus engaging the international audience in musical expression with multiple languages.

In the upcoming concert in Nehru Centre, India High Commission, London, Runki will celebrate Indian Folk in its original form. This is on the same lines of for her folk performance in India International Centre New Delhi, which garnered huge applause leaving people asking for more. Given that a different dialect is spoken, a new belief and story told in every bend of a kilometer in India, Runki will try and relive some of those which are now either lying latent in the memories of the older generation or left un-nurtured by the new.

Runki has studied folk carefully and believes that folk is primarily authorless and is not about an individual, but people, their culture, lifestyle and belief system which is running through generations and prevalent till date. Moreover folk is not Bollywood which people need to know. Therefore this concert is a reflection of her effort to revive and keep true Indian folk music alive not only in India but also on the international platform. The recitals will be the mirror image of the unchanging legacy of different states, their culture, customs, beliefs, and faith. Runki will make sure that her music concert is just not about singing, but narrating the history and interpretation of every pastoral folk rendition accompanied by authentic instrumentals.

The upcoming live performance at India High Commission – Nehru Centre London on 30th May 2018, will surely be enchanting for all music lovers as Runki will musically hop in and out of Indian States with almost 20 folk songs in over 10 different languages.
