

Women of Baghpura - Precedent for women of the state - Collector

Udaipur: The women of Baghpura, who started the commercial production of Udaipur / goat milk, have stepped in to the direction of self-reliance and have emerged as examples for the women of the state. Addressing the women of the women's self-help group in Baghpura of Vidol Block, district collector Mrs. Anand said.

District collector said in the program organized at Model Balika Vidyalaya premises of Baghpura, despite the hard work of goat rearing with the work of the house, women of tribal areas could not get any financial benefits. The administration has prepared women for self-help groups for professional production of goat's milk to make women economically self-reliant. She said that the results of the efforts of the administration have been positive and today every woman associated with this project has come under the condition of buying a new goat in its 10 month earnings. Hopefully this situation will improve further in the coming days.

While addressing the program, Zilla Parishad CEO Kamar Chaudhary said that these women are not only being given proper training for goat rearing but also the marketing of milk produced by them is being done through medium through commercial marketing. At present, packaged goat milk in 200 ml bottle is being sent for sale in Udaipur and other cities. Expanding it soon, it will also be arranged for marketing in metros.

Project at a glance

HEALTH UPDATES

Doctors at Apollo save 5 months old baby girl from an extremely rare liver disease

Udaipur: In an extremely rare case of Budd Chiari Syndrome with Biliary Atresia, doctors at Indraprastha Apollo hospitals saved the life of a 5-month old baby girl Surampudi Seetha from Kakinada, Andhra Pradesh. The baby developed jaundice when she was just one month old. Her condition worsened as her abdomen started distending due to progressive swelling.

Dr Anupam Sibal, Group Medical Director and Senior Pediatric Gastroenterologist and Hepatologist, Apollo Hospitals Group said, "In Biliary Atresia, which is seen in 1 in 12000 babies there is no connection between the liver and the intestine. The first step in treatment is to create a connection between the liver and the intestine.

This was attempted at the local hospital initially to treat the baby's condition but as Surampudi's liver was already severely shrunken (due to cirrhosis), the procedure was abandoned. She was referred to Apollo Hospital for a liver transplant." "She weighed 5.5 kg when she first came to our hospital, including abdominal fluid of about 1 litre. So effectively, her weight was 4.5 kg. CT Angiography showed that she was suffering from occluded hepatic venous channels which drain the liver.

The diagnosis of Budd Chiari Syndrome was made. It is a very rare disease which affects 1 in 2 million children. Budd Chiari Syndrome had resulted in rapid worsening of the baby's condition which necessitated an urgent liver transplant. While Biliary Atresia is most common condition for which liver transplantation in children are performed, Budd Chiari syndrome is extremely rare. Of the 320 liver transplants that we have performed in children, more than 140 have been for children with Biliary Atresia. The combination of Budd Chiari syndrome with Biliary Atresia in a baby is the rarest of rare cases" Dr Sibal added.

Surampudi underwent a living donor liver transplant on 25th March, 2019 with her mother being her donor. Dr Neerav Goyal, Senior Consultant liver transplant and Hepatologist and Pancreatic surgeon, Apollo Hospitals Group, explained, "A combination of Budd Chiari and Biliary Atresia made the liver transplant very high risk. The blood vessels in a baby are very small (3-4 mm) and with Budd Chiari Syndrome the risk of clotting in the blood vessels is increased. We explained the procedure to the parents in detail and counselled them so that they make an informed decision. Initially, the father was worked up as the donor but his liver was found unsuitable for donation. The mother's liver turned out to be compatible. After her surgery, Surampudi, recovered well and was discharged after three weeks.

Today she is on medications to prevent re-occlusion of her tiny vessels and to prevent rejection of the transplanted liver." "As the family had limited resources, they received financial help from many benevolent people who came forward to contribute for her treatment through a crowd-funding platform" he added. The team included, Dr. Shishir Parikh, Liver Transplant and Pancreatic surgeon, Dr. V Arun Kumar, Liver Transplant and Pancreatic surgeon, Dr. Hitender Garg, Gastroenterologist and Hepatologist, Dr. Namit Jerath, Pediatric Intensivist and Dr. Smita Malhotra, Pediatric Gastroenterologist and Hepatologist

Landmark decision taken in the first Cabinet meeting of the NDA Government offers pension coverage to crores of farmers

The Union Cabinet, chaired by the Prime Minister Narendra Modi has approved a new Central Sector Scheme, a historic decision that will empower farmers across India. This is a path breaking scheme that will provide pension cover to our industrious farmers who toil day and night to keep our nation fed. It is also for the first time since independence that such a pension coverage has been envisioned for farmers. It is estimated that 5 crore small and marginal farmers will benefit in the first three years itself. The Central Government would spend Rs. 10774.50 crore for a period of 3 years towards its contribution (matching share) for providing social security cover as envisaged under the scheme.

The salient features of this scheme are: A voluntary and contributory pension scheme for all Small and Marginal Farmers (SMF) across the country.

Entry age of 18 to 40 years with a provision of minimum fixed pension of Rs.3,000/- on attaining the age of 60 years.

For example, a beneficiary farmer is required to contribute Rs 100/- per month at median entry age of 29 years. The Central Government shall also contribute to the Pension Fund an equal amount as contributed by the eligible farmer.

After the subscriber's death, while receiving pension, the spouse of the SMF beneficiary shall be entitled to receive 50% of the pension received by the beneficiary as family pension, provided he/she is not already an SMF beneficiary of the Scheme. If, the death of the subscriber happens during the period of contribution, the spouse shall have the option of continuing the Scheme by paying regular contribution.

Synergy between schemes, prosperity for farmers: An interesting feature of the Scheme is that the farmers can opt to allow his/her monthly contribution to the Scheme to be made from the benefits drawn from the Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-KISAN) Scheme directly. Alternatively, a farmer can pay his monthly contribution by registering through Common Service Centres (CSCs) under MeitY.

Fulfilling core promises, empowering the agriculture sector: For seventy years after Independence, such a coverage for farmers was never thought. It was in the run up to the 2019 Parliamentary elections that PM Narendra Modi first mooted such an idea, which gradually found resonance across the length and breadth of India. Such a plan was mentioned in the BJP manifesto and in the first Cabinet meeting after the formation of a new Government, it has become a reality.
