

Take a Break!

August is one of the most celebrated months in the year in Udaipur. A few weeks of rain has already painted the city green, and now amid those droplets of monsoon, we have a series of festivities to enjoy. From Teej to Rakshabandhan to Krishna Janmashtami, the August has it all.

The celebratory mood of the city is upbeat. People have preferences for their choice of festivals, but generally, all festivals bring a new color to the family.

This year the Independence Day and Rakshabandhan are falling the same day, but the good news is that its Thursday. So if someone can plan an off on Friday, it could be a long weekend. And since its beginning at a festival, a holiday with family should be the idea.

The life, on the one hand, is getting more comfortable every other day but at the same time, the complexities are reaching us from the backdoor. And in such an age which is more discomfort than ease, these festivities serve the purpose and make you take and enjoy a break. It is almost impossible to separate professional and personal lives. The two are well connected, and one depends on the other and vice versa. But these festivities give you a much-needed break that your brain needs.

And not just the job, your interest in politics, sports, economy, and so on can also add to the stress you do not need to assume. End of the day, numerous such things play on your mind and keep you stressed for no reason for your concern. Festivities are appropriately planned and keep on introducing the ecstasy and freedom you need to revive the brain.

This brings us to a more critical issue about being ultra-modern and avoiding these festivities on one or other pretexts. Some say that they do not believe in the reasons why these festivals are celebrated. That, of course, can be a valid reason but then which occasion can you believe to be perfect for a celebration. But then, you still can enjoy it without believing in it. The same way we watch movies, but we may or may not believe in the ideas presented there.

People who take good breaks are more productive than those who look to work continuously. Now, if you agree to this point, again a point rises that you cannot be on v Take a Break!

August is one of the most celebrated months in the year in Udaipur. A few weeks of rain has already painted the city green, and now amid those droplets of monsoon, we have a series of festivities to enjoy. From Teej to Rakshabandhan to Krishna Janmashtami, the August has it all.

The celebratory mood of the city is upbeat. People have preferences for their choice of festivals, but generally, all festivals bring a new color to the family.

This year the Independence Day and Rakshabandhan are falling the same day, but the good news is that its Thursday. So if someone can plan an off on Friday, it could be a long weekend. And since its beginning at a festival, a holiday with family should be the idea.

The life, on the one hand, is getting more comfortable every other day but at the same time, the complexities are reaching us from the backdoor. And in such an age which is more discomfort than ease, these festivities serve the purpose and make you take and enjoy a break. It is almost impossible to separate professional and personal lives. The two are well connected, and one depends on the other and vice versa. But these festivities give you a much-needed break that your brain needs.

And not just the job, your interest in politics, sports, economy, and so on can also add to the stress you do not need to assume. End of the day, numerous such things play on your mind and keep you stressed for no reason for your concern. Festivities are appropriately planned and keep on introducing the ecstasy and freedom you need to revive the brain.

This brings us to a more critical issue about being ultra-modern and avoiding these festivities on one or other pretexts. Some say that they do not believe in the reasons why these festivals are celebrated. That, of course, can be a valid reason but then which occasion can you believe to be perfect for a celebration. But then, you still can enjoy it without believing in it. The same way we watch movies, but we may or may not believe in the ideas presented there.

People who take good breaks are more productive than those who look to work continuously. Now, if you agree to this point, again a point rises that you cannot be on vacation every weekend. Yes, of course, that is why we have festivals that come at a regular interval. If you do not plan a big break, you can simply follow the sun and enjoy these special days even though you do not believe in them; you can still make the most of it.

Now, plan a break over the next festival and no matter what, enjoy every bit of it. Your family will love it, and your own soul will love you back.

vacation every weekend. Yes, of course, that is why we have festivals that come at a regular interval. If you do not plan a big break, you can simply follow the sun and enjoy these special days even though you do not believe in them; you can still make the most of it.

Now, plan a break over the next festival and no matter what, enjoy every bit of it. Your family will love it, and your own soul will love you back.

Rahul Kanwal Wins TV Anchor Leadership Award

Mumbai: Rahul Kanwal, the leading face of Indian news television and News Director, TVTN won the "TV Anchor of the Year" honour at the prestigious International Advertising Association (IAA) Leadership Awards.

He received the award at a gala ceremony in Mumbai packed with high-profile corporate executives and media professionals. Rahul Kanwal leads newsgathering and operational efforts of the India Today network, managing a crack team of over 500 multi-platform journalists. He hosts Newstrack, India Today TV's flagship prime-time broadcast, and Jab We Met, the popular weekend interview show.

Guinness book of records event for ORGAN DONATION

memorable. My mother and wife are always really supportive and they are the reason for my success."

Chaitanya said the youth of the present generation has everything and they should come up with innovative ideas. "I always try to promote young talent. I always stand to empower the youth who will push the world forward through entrepreneurship and innovation. My suggestion to the young generation is not to compare with others as everyone is unique. Being successful as a young entrepreneur is a combination of effort, luck, and support," he added.

"Little Model earth 2019"

another even on International Children festival of art and culture is going to be organized in Visakhapatnam in association with D. LaValentina group. Mrs. D. LaValentina Mishra is the national director of India for Miss and Mr. SEA Global President of Asia Global world and worldwide pageant. More than 20 countries were going to participate in this mega international event.

This is going to be the other milestone for RMG group. Chaitanya said, "Under corporate social responsibility, we were going to organize a Guinness book of records event for ORGAN DONATION. This really not only gives awards to us but gives real satisfaction.

With the success of this event gives lives to lakhs of people by way of getting the most precious Organs. As we all know very well getting organ has become very challenging due to the lack of awareness in public.

We would like to aware public in this Regards and would like to take the Government of India and state government support."

ACF Launches a skill training program at Dariba, Rajasthan

Udaipur: A social implementing organization Ambuja Cement Foundation (ACF) and a worldwide mining company Hindustan Zinc Limited today, inaugurated a skill development centre at Rapura Dariba Mine, Rajasthan.

This partnership will aim to provide training to almost 3,000 unemployed youth in skilled trades like Assistant Electrician, Domestic Data Entry Operator, Sales Associate, Unarmed Security Guard and Micro Finance Executive, thereby ensuring maximum placement opportunities.

Hindustan Zinc has been operating in Dariba for over 35 years now and has observed that the youth there are unskilled which leaves them with very less employment options. Ambuja Cement Foundation, the implementing partner, hence conducted a need assessment survey to find out about the trades in nearby areas that required skilled workers and thereafter planned appropriate training modules through two centres for the unemployed youth in the region. This program will not only provide quality training from experienced professionals to the youth, but also employment opportunities in their residing locations and in the same trade trained.

Additionally, ACF will monitor retention of the placed candidates and support them in their journey.

During the inaugural event, Ms. Pearl Tiwari, Director and CEO, Ambuja Cement Foundation said "With over a decade's experience in skill training, Ambuja Cement Foundation looks forward to the 5-year partnership with Hindustan Zinc Limited where we will together provide quality training, both on and off the job, in order to make the youth of Dariba capable for skilled jobs. Our mission is to strengthen livelihoods and empower the rural communities for a happier tomorrow."

Ms. Tiwari also added "At Ambuja Cement Foundation, we believe in harnessing the power of partnerships and stakeholder collaborations, through which we can effectively tackle our nation's challenges. This is our first partnership with Hindustan Zinc and we hope to develop more successful initiatives with them."

The first year of operations would aim to train at least 220 youth followed by around 700 youth in the consecutive years. Both the organizations are committed towards this goal and will also provide sustainable employment opportunities.

Rekha Chaudhari Awarded Philosophiae Doctor Honoris Causa

Mumbai: With skin being in following the boom in the beauty business, it's only natural that beauty & wellness champions get their moment in the sun!

In this case, MD - Oneline Wellness Pvt. Ltd., and Queen of Spas and the wellness industry, Rekha Chaudhari was recently felicitated with the Philosophiae Doctor Honoris Causa honour at the 5th Sorbon International Convocation held at the India Habitat Centre, New Delhi. Organised by Dr John Thomas Prade from Sorbon University, France, in conjunction with the IIPPT Foundation India, Rekha Chaudhari was honoured in the field of Health & Wellness at the conclave. An elated Global Wellness Ambassador Dr Rekha Chaudhari reveals, "Twenty-five years ago, when I came to the city to pursue a career in the field of beauty, times were tough and it was the same when I transitioned into the spa & wellness space. I just kept working hard as the road to success is seldom smooth." Global wellness Ambassador Dr. Rekha Chaudhari continues, "I am glad I got the opportunity to associate with award-winning European skincare and SPA brands such as Rémy Laure, Phytother, ASP and B.LAB. Also got honoured with many prestigious organisations worldwide to explore and work in the wellness industry last decade. Be it setting up the high-end luxury Spa across the world and having Own popular Caressaa Day Spa Juhu or my various patented treatments such as the Geo Thermo Therapy and Rope Massage Therapy, they have all found their niche following. We have also successfully trained Tribal youth in beauty & wellness capacities in our various village schools and successfully transformed their life by offering them jobs in the cities Spa and Salons." It's all these activities that lead to another laurel in her cap! She affirms, "I am grateful to Dr. John Thomas Prade from Sorbon University, France, for conferring this prestigious honour on me! It feels nice to be recognised for your contributions in your chosen vocation."

Riding the digitisation wave, Vedanta provides laptops to 3000 girls

Keeping up with its commitment towards supporting education, Vedanta Foundation, distributed 3000 laptops to students of Vedanta PG Girls College in Ringus, Rajasthan. The Laptop Distribution event was held today, where free laptops were distributed to 3000 girls (existing and new admissions), most of them belonging to nearby villages. The ceremony was graced by Vice Chancellor, Pandit Deendayal Upadhyay Shekhawati University, Prof. B.L. Sharma along with Chairman Hindustan Zinc, Mrs. Kiran Agarwal and Trustee Vedanta Foundation, Mrs. Suman Didwania. This initiative has been undertaken in a bid to support less privileged students achieve their dreams. Of the 3000 girls in this college, 97 girls are from the five operational districts of Hindustan Zinc, which is sponsoring their education. "I feel very proud of the efforts that these students are putting towards their education. Providing them with these laptops will help open new avenues for the students to expand their knowledge, widen their horizon and aid their learning. This will further give them an opportunity to take a step towards a more comprehensive style of education," said Mrs. Kiran Agarwal, Chairman Hindustan Zinc.

Mrs. Suman Didwania opined, "Education needs to be diversified in formats that make learning more inclusive. Providing these students with laptops will help them gain a more competitive approach towards learning. In today's world where laptops have become a necessity rather than a luxury, Vedanta Foundation, by providing free laptops, aims to make a positive difference to the lives of the students.

With the efforts put in by these girls to learn, despite the challenges and difficulties that they face, the initiative was long due." Prof. B.L. Sharma added, "With help from companies like Vedanta, the education sector is witnessing significant reforms and we are able to provide better quality education to students across economic strata of the society. We have to ensure that these initiatives add to responsible learning for these students and they add are able to contribute to the development of the nation.

Education has always been a primary focus at Vedanta and this initiative adds to the list of contributions that the firm has made in this field. With an increasing thrust on Digital India by the government, its success is dependent on its accessibility and availability to the youth, who use it to add to the development of the country. This initiative will help us take a step closer to realising the dream of a digital India.

The information contained in this electronic message and any attachments to this message are intended for the exclusive use of the addressee(s) and may contain proprietary, confidential or privileged information. If you are not the intended recipient, you should not disseminate, distribute or copy this e-mail. Please notify the sender immediately and destroy all copies of this message and any attachments contained in it.

