Freedom at Midnight, Slavery in Day Light

India is proud of its independence and the entire nation is united in offering tributes to the brave freedom fighters who laid down their lives, sacrificed their comfort and languished in the British prisons for attaining freedom for its people. On the midnight of 14-15th August Pdt. Jawahar Lal Nehru unfurled the tricolor and made his historic speech. The words that he uttered with passion and confidence still echo in the atmosphere and inspire millions of Indian nationals. In his speech he had laid down the priorities of a new born nation. He had said, "Long years ago we made a tryst with destiny, and now the time comes when we shall redeem our pledge, not wholly or in full measure, but very substantially. At the stroke of the midnight hour, when the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom. A moment comes, which comes but rarely in history, when we step out from the old to new, when an age ends, and when the soul of a nation, long suppressed, finds utterance...

...The ambition of the greatest man of our generation has been to wipe every tear from every eye. That may be beyond us, but so long as there are tears and suffering, so long our work will not be over. And so we have to labour and to work, and work hard, to give reality to our dreams. Those dreams are for India, but they are also for the world."

The vision of Nehru was to wipe the tears of every one and bring comfort to all who were suffering - not just in India but in the entire world. He had said his dreams were for India but were also for the world. This vision got reflected in the policies of our country for a pretty long time. The policy of Panchsheel,

Non-alignment, planned development, development of a strong public sector, nationalization of Banks, a strong public distribution system for ensuring food security, public education and healthcare, setting up of institutions of international standards in health, education and research sectors and strengthening of democratic institutions and movements were some of the memorable initiatives taken by India during the initial years of independence.

The policy of having good friendly relationship with neighbouring countries, standing with the nations struggling for independence, supporting fight against apartheid, always supporting the cause of disarmament and global peace, supporting people everywhere in the hour of need, particularly in natural calamities and developing man to man relationship between people of different nations made India a world leader in many ways.

These policies can still make India a world leader and a proud self reliant nation. We need to come out of the slavery of multinational corporate sector supported by the imperialist forces.

For this a socialist model of development, a secular internal approach of governance and greater contribution of state in health and education sectors is required. We need to respect our man power and instead of considering population as a burden start using it as an asset and frame our policies to ensure their maximum participation in the production and development process. India will surely rise again to meet the challenges of our times.

India - One Independent Nation As I Can See

Human knowledge hasn't yet reached to that stage to be able to give a well-defined conclusion over the stock of cosmic resource exhausted in supplying that immense power for sustenance of our endless universe. We're able to conclude ourselves as the best evolving species living on Earth to dominate over all others. Being the most judgemental kind if compared with the rest, since the time our civilization began, we're on the quest to fulfil our necessities that bothered us and for that we've taken such actions that harmed others as well as us. Now, passing the chapters of emperors and invaders, our generation is seeing law making ministries to lead us towards progress. First thing that we do is to judge these laws to satisfy ourselves whether they are best fit for our requirements. But, we never know whether these laws fit best for this whole universe or not. All our wit is not so strong to have that understanding. May be, this struggle of knowledge will go on till our last day.

In 2020, the current time where we've come, we're struggling with the harm caused by the recent pandemic COVID-19, that has become the primary concern to overcome for the whole world. Crisis allows us to use the best of our wit and we must be faithful to those who are constantly working for our good. Now, if we see, some of the key reforms chalked out by our current Narendra Modi led Government of India include our daily life's part, are as:

- ~ Digitization of Money, our tool for safe contactless money transaction for the sake of Social Distancing
- ~ Online Businesses, major source of supply for provisions we need
- ~ Internet Communication, the key technology support that is making our life comfortable in isolation and LockDown days
- ~ Make in India Concept, giving hope for job and new areas of economy to make our nation Self-Reliant
- ~ Swachhata Mission, awareness of sanitization becomes essential now

We're judging the long existing social norms now for the sake of our protection. Our wit made us worshippers of Mother Nature to escape from its rage. Those religious thoughts, where people gathered and prayed are changing and our ministry is even condemning them as 'Being Irresponsible'. It is part of our current awareness that we should follow to escape from a fast spreading disease. We're considering to start heated debate on Citizenship Amendment, a question to rethink on one of the past decisions taken to safeguard our nation. And still, our nation is the great believer of peacekeeping and thus struggling to settle the dispute of Line of Actual Control. India, where we dream to prosper above all, never forgets the suicide of a rising actor - Sushant Singh Rajput and wants to know about the mystery of his death.

Born at a time even evil was surprised

Born with miracles, ready to fight
Came into the world to teach about karma
My grandma tells me stories about a man who became the dharma
He is no god, neither is he a magician
Just a simple genius with a mind only few can reason
He is a friend, a son, a lover
He is the man i call purushottam
He is divine, for he is enlightened
He is the mystery only heart can fathom
Who gave justice a new meaning
Who assured his followers he is always within
He is a feeling, an expression of joy
He is the man who will stand by your side
A trickster, a cheater, an unfair wizard they call him
But only few know, He made the world we live in
I am a devotee of the man who told me
Answers don't lie in external world, they lie within me
