

A New bond of friendship: Coffee & Mom

I have many friends and I know the value of good friends. It was a surprise for me that my 84 years old mom's new friend is not a human being but a small puppy. From the very beginning, my mother was against raising dogs at home. We were four sisters. She believed that none of us would take care of a pet because we all were indulged in our studies and mom had to do all the work alone.

Years later, I kept a small puppy in the house, which we have lovingly named Coffee.

As soon as Coffee arrived, it became a cherished house, the children of the locality did not stop following it. The white, sweet, little puppy roamed all parts of the house freely. The little coffee learned to walk soon and he started doing cute things. He sometimes runs away with someone's sandal and sometimes pulls socks and runs away. Coffee hides inside in his small house after being scolded.

One day Mummy came to live with us and Coffee was very happy to see her. Mummy was afraid of him in the beginning. A few days before her arrival, Coffee had fallen ill. Mom used to ask for her well-being from far away and prayed for him every day that he would get well, but still I felt that it was difficult for mom to live with Coffee.

Coffee was not used to being left alone and mom mostly lived in her room. Initially, mom used to close the door so that coffee would not come and play inside. Slowly coffee started forming a relationship with her. Whenever Mom opens the door, he sits in the middle of the door and looks at her and wags his tail.

The two begin a friendship and mom finds a new friend. After Papa's death, she often felt alone, but even then she never let herself feel sad. Coffee sits besides her and often rests his feet on her lap, sometimes sniffing both her feet and plays with her. Whenever mom drinks tea, Coffee sits near her and mom feeds him biscuits. Initially mom did not pay attention towards him but gradually she started feeding him as well. Coffee did not feel good until mom used to feed him something. It was as if there was a small child in the house and her grandmother was feeding him with love.

One day I got up in the morning and went out to pick up the newspaper and fell down. Fearing that Coffee should not run out of the door, I went ahead in a hurry and fell from the stairs. When Coffee saw this, he did not go out even though the door was open but kept watching me while sitting at the door. I got up, my left eye was bleeding and left leg was aching. I somehow closed the door and went to my mother's room and told her that I was hurt. Coffee sat there and started licking my feet. He sat there until I fell asleep. When I woke up, my mother told me that coffee did not eat anything and remained hungry till evening.

After this incident, mom came closer to Coffee. Where in today's life humans run to kill each other, coffee is spreading love despite being a little sweet puppy. Coffee, mom's little friend, had developed a strong relationship with her. Now both of them play with each other. It was an interesting experience to see my mom doing various things for coffee. Now it seems that this friendship will continue in the future.

I was sitting idle and thinking that it is important to just be born as human? Coffee is much more sensitive and intelligent than many other selfish human beings. He understands the silent language of love and care.

This little friend of my mother is slowly growing up and I hope that their bond will get stronger and I will weave a new story in words which you all will be eagerly waiting for.

Greetings from Banyan Tree Events!

We are glad to let you know that despite all the difficulties, Banyan Tree's Ruhaniyat is back!

Finally, life seems to be picking herself up on her feet again. So many heart-wrenching stories, so many unanswered questions... The pandemic, the lockdown and all that followed made us all ask some fundamental questions. When in the midst of all the chaos, for most, connecting with the divine, in whatever way, seemed like a soothing balm. Reading or listening to the immortal works of great saints, realized masters gave solace and also provided that most needed ray of hope. As November arrived, we at Banyan Tree helplessly looked at the scenario which was far from suitable to take off on our annual Ruhaniyat journey. Finally, the wait is over and we are all set to present Ruhaniyat once again. So, what's special about this difficult year's Ruhaniyat?

Ruhaniyat will be featured in Mumbai in an all-new Hybrid format. The live concert with the limited physical audience will also be streamed live for all who have been eagerly waiting for it but cannot be there physically. Though except Mumbai, it will not be a physical concert, we are thankful that we can present Ruhaniyat at all, even if in a digital format to all our loyal audiences across the country.

Besides the live performances in Mumbai, Ruhaniyat in all 8 cities will also, present some presentations specially shot at the actual habitats of our artists, including some from other countries. In other words, this Ruhaniyat will take you to spectacular locales bringing lives now-covered mountains, lakes, sand dunes, jungles...

A Star Studded Launch For Hariharan & Bickram Ghosh's Ishq – Songs Of Love!

Composer Bickram Ghosh and singer Hariharan have teamed up to bring to audiences myriad shades of Ishq, the much needed emotion post pandemic. With music by Maestro Bickram Ghosh and set to vocals by Legendary playback singer Hariharan, Ishq – Song Of Love features music video directed by Arindam Sil and lyrics by Sugata Guha. It features Abhisek Mallick on the Sitar and, interestingly, features Bickram Ghosh himself for live percussion and Tabla.

Speaking about the same, veteran playback singer Hariharan shares that he has been super excited to see the album get ready for release as, he adds, creating an album is a lot of hard work taking hours, days and months of an artist's time! "Here, we have six songs with six stories! The kind that tells its own story. The nuances behind each song are as different as the stories behind them. All in all, the outcome of love is different." Interestingly, the song 'Baaton Baaton Mein' already crossed millions of views on YouTube. It is available on other platforms including Apple Music and Spotify as well!

Yogesh Lakhani of Bright Outdoor avers, "Hariharan and Bickram Ghosh are phenomenal musicians and it is a pleasure for Bright to be associated with 'Ishq – Songs Of Love'."

International Women's Day- 8th March

Remembering Sudha Bhardwaj, Disha Ravi and Gauri Lankesh

-Dr.H.S.Chandalia

International Women's Day is to be celebrated on 8 March around the world. It is a focal point in the movement for women's rights. After the Socialist Party of America organized a Women's Day in New York City on February 28, 1909, German delegates Clara Zetkin, Käthe Duncker, Paula Thiede and others proposed at the 1910 International Socialist Women's Conference that "a special Women's Day" be organized annually. After women gained suffrage in Soviet Russia in 1917, March 8 became a national holiday there. The day was then predominantly celebrated by the socialist movement and communist countries until it was adopted by the feminist movement in about 1967. The United Nations began celebrating the day in 1977.

"Women in Leadership: Achieving an equal future in a COVID-19 world" is the slogan given by the United Nations Organization for the 2021 International Women's Day. The Pandemic has affected the whole world but the worst hit are women and children of the working class who have been left without jobs and livelihood. Not just this, the nation states have taken harsh measures to stifle those voices in the name of pandemic, which have tried to voice the popular concerns of the masses. The latest example in India is that of a young environment activist Disha Ravi who was arrested just for editing a tweet and forwarding it in favour of the ongoing farmer's movement. Actress Tapasi Pannu has also been targeted for the same reason.

It is ironic that even those powers responsible for the brutal murder of journalist Gauri Lankesh and the irrational arrest of Sudha Bhardwaj would not feel ashamed in issuing statements on the International Women's Day. The BJP ruled states like Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka have promulgated draconian laws in the name of "Love Jihad" which steal away a girl's freedom to choose her life partner. Violence against women is at a high rise in the state of Uttar Pradesh where even the MLA s of the ruling BJP have not only been found guilty of rape and murder but have shamelessly threatened the family of victims in places like Unnava and Hathras. Despite the right to equality before law guaranteed by the constitution of India women face discrimination in employment, political representation and even in matters of domestic decision making. The long awaited bill for reservation of seats in parliament and other legislative bodies for women is still pending.

Amidst such an environment the celebration of International Women's Day comes as a ray of hope. The history of the day suggests that it was begun by the socialist groups and observed widely by the Soviet regime in erstwhile USSR. This should be understood by all that women's emancipation is today more than gender, a class issue. The rights of women can be secured by securing the rights of farmers, labourers and the entire working class.
