

Wealth should not become the root of misfortune - Acharya Mahashraman

Establishment of nation peace is possible through non-violence and non-violence - Acharya Mahashraman

Bhilwara: Anuvrat Writer Award Ceremony Organized, Aditya Vihar, Terapanth Nagar, Bhilwara The 'Anuvrata Writer' award ceremony was organized on the second day of the Anuvrat writer seminar in the holy presence of Anuvrat Anushasta Pujya Acharya Shri Mahashraman ji, who has awakened the spirit of goodwill, morality and de-addiction in the country and abroad through non-violence yatra. the award of the year 2020 was given by Anuvrat Vishwa Bharati to the famous satirist, journalist, writer and the privilege of Rajasthan Chief Minister Dr. Farooq Afridi and for the year 2021 award was given to senior journalist and political analyst Dr. Vedpratap Vaidik.

Giving religious instruction in the Dharmasabha, Acharya Shri Mahashraman, the peace messenger, said - the greatest bondage is possessiveness, unconsciousness, attachment. Violence and possessiveness both have a deep symbiotic relationship. Violence is the result of possessiveness, bondage. Attachment to substances reinforces the feeling of greed, which again leads to violence within the person. A person indulging in violence increases enmity, he can never be free from suffering. If one is to be free from bondage, then possessiveness and violence have to be avoided, and substance consumption has to be restrained. In a context, it can be said that money, meaning is necessary, but when the consciousness of greed is awakened, then this meaning becomes the root of misfortune.

This is what the Anuvrat movement says, arouse a feeling of detachment towards violence. By non-violence, happiness, peace, love and harmony can be maintained in the society. Acharya further said that in the present era, the philosophy of non-violence is necessary for the creation of a healthy society and for maintaining love, friendship, happiness and peace between one nation to another. During the non-violence journey,

Acharya Shri Mahapragya has solved big problems through non-violence. The nation lags behind violence and the nation progresses through non-violence. By reducing violence through friendship, non-violence and moving on the path of non-violence, we can pave the way for liberation from suffering and salvation.

Sadhviary Sambuddhayasha said in the speech that many qualities are automatically incorporated in a brilliant person. He is compassionate, intelligent, courageous, positive and resolute. With austerity and sense restraint, the person's aura becomes bright, with a steady mood.

Inspiration Pathway of Anuvrat Anushasta in Anuvrat author's seminar

Addressing the Anuvrat writer seminar, Acharya Shri said that one dimension of the Anuvrat movement is the Anuvrat writer seminar. Through this seminar, many writers get an opportunity to get acquainted and assimilated with the Anuvratas. The author has the power of words, but the root element in the form of words has soul in the form of meaning. The author tries to reach the reader by the meaning power contained within his word power. The writer can influence the public by writing his words boldly. If this reward becomes helpful in the fulfillment of the goal by awakening the inner consciousness, then it can be proved to move forward. It is expected that the author should try to agitate the public in the direction of restraint through his thinking. In the seminar, Anuvrat Vishwa Bharati President Shri Sanchay Jain expressed his views, Vice President Shri Rajesh Surana read the citation. Function was convened by Mr. Lalit Garg.

Global Music video dots World Bindi Day to celebrate woman hood

Mumbai: And now it is World Bindi Day that needs to be celebrated this Navratri. Karmanye Kreation is a US based media conglomerate and an initiative by a few NRIs with an objective dedicated to producing content on the culture and history of Indic civilization has come out with a music video about the importance of the Bindi.

The video featuring Dr. Sonal Mansingh, Mata Rajyalaxmi, Malini Awasthi, Aroona Bhatt, Anusha Srinivasan Iyer, Simran Kaur Mundi, Manjari Phadnis, Nyra Banerjee, Ragini Dwivedi, Anchal Dwivedi, Kainaati Arora, Shibani Kashyap, Nivedita Basu, among others was put recently on the social media

during Navratri. The Bindi Song has been sung by Shweta Pandit, Composed by Hriday Gattani with Lyrics by Shivangi Tewari. The video is produced by Karmanye Kreation and Shilpi Shrivastav with Music on Advait Music featuring women from various walks of life.

"The video will give a global appeal to all the women around the world to wear Bindi with pride as a mark of women empowerment. A letter to officially designate a World Bindi Day has been sent to the United Nations by WorldBindiDay.org. World Bindi Day concept was conceived by few NRIs last year, when it was decided that the pious day for this beautiful concept should be the start of Navratri, which emphasizes women empowerment and their importance in the society. Hence the first day of Navratri was formalized as World Bindi Day. To make it a global initiative and spread the word among millions of women around the globe, the idea to compose a music video was conceived by Karmanye Kreation, US. The song and the video were thus made to share with the world the significance of putting up a Bindi as a mark of each woman's pride and a symbol of women empowerment," says Anant Srivastava of Karmanye Kreation.

"A new Bindi song will be released next year too. Next year's plan is to reach out to celebrities, social workers, eminent personalities from around the globe to support this initiative and also appear in the video," adds Anant.

"I was attracted to the concept of coming up with a song. The song will show how the Bindi described the Indian woman. It perfectly explains the reason and pride behind wearing the bindi," says Shweta who has sung the number.

"I think a woman's beauty is enhanced by wearing a Bindi. I sometimes wear a Bindi on casual and western wear too. I have noticed it gives me a distinct persona. Other women should try it to see the difference," says Anchal Dwivedi.

"I wear bindi as it is part of my Indian culture and tradition and I am truly proud of it. It also activates the third eye - the pituitary gland - which is in the middle of the eyebrows!" says Shibani Kashyap. "My Bindi is the essence of existence. Without it I am incomplete. It gives me strength and the power to stand up for right and against wrong. The bindi is the sixth chakra point and my third eye to view the world," elaborates Anusha Srinivasan Iyer.

"The significance of beauty and strength in one bindi ... the essence of womanhood culture and pride. I love to wear it each day with each outfit; it only makes the look better and stronger," opines Ragini Dwivedi. "My bindi not only enhances my beauty but also reminds me of the divine powers through my third eye. Bindi is the symbol of my Divya Drishti," says Nyra Banerjee. Karmanye Kreation is to show the historical aspects of our civilization. Few of the early projects that Karmanye Kreation has undertaken are - Unexplored places of Ayodhya, Kashmir History and History of Indic Civilization and the current effort is an initiative to celebrate various Hindustani Diwas like Bindi Day and Tilak Day and not just international days like Halloween or Valentine's Day.
