MLSU: Retired employees will get the facility of RGHS

Udaipur: Mohanlal Sukhadia University Ph.D. The Entrance Exam will be held on 12th December 2021! Vice-Chancellor Professor Amarika

Singh told that earlier this examination was proposed to be held on November 21, but the examinations of various subjects of NTA UGC NET will end on December 5, so given the interest of the students, the university has rescheduled the Ph.D. entrance examination on December 12. VC informed that this exam will be conducted in offline mode in 4 major cities of the country namely Udaipur, Jaipur, Jodhpur, and Delhi, etc. The number of these exam centers can be increased or decreased depending on the number of students. Earlier the Ph.D. entrance examination of the university was conducted twice in an academic session, the university is trying again in this sequence.

Like CGHS in Sukhadia University, its pensioners will be given facilities under RGHS, for this, according to the letter of the Planning Director, State Insurance, and Provisional Funds Department, autonomous institutions like CGHS will also be provided facilities under RGHS to the pensioners of the university.

Professor Singh said that pensioners are the pillars and main part of the university, so for their health, better medical facilities will continue to be done in the university from time to time! To join this facility, retired employees will get the benefit of this scheme for life by depositing a lump sum of 61000 / - caseless indoor, daycare medical, and outdoor facility will be provided under this scheme. Under the scheme, Rs 5 lakh per family and Rs 5 lakh will be received for the treatment of serious illness, which will enable cashless and better medical treatment. To join the pensioner employee under this scheme, it is necessary to have an SSO ID and a Janadhar card. For this, the Vice-Chancellor has issued orders to add all the pensioners of the university.

Special Training Program on Mental Health and Balance at the MBA College of Pacific University

Udaipur: The Faculty of Pacific Management organized a one-day workshop to highlight the increasing stress and its adverse effects in the young generation and to improve the lifestyle of management students.

The keynote speaker of the workshop, Dr. S. G. Mehta, HOD Psychiatry Department, PMCH also gave tips to the students to keep physical and mental health in balance by creating the ability to cope with stress through a stress-free medium.

He further explained to the students in detail that due to stress and anxiety, such problems are being seen more in the youth. With examples from several real-life situations, Dr. Mehta also explained to the students how stress adversely affects the physical, mental, and social well-being of an individual. Dean Prof. Mahima Birla said that the Management College organizes such training programs from time to time for the development of intellectual and professional skills of the students. Convenor of the workshop Dr. Pallavi Mehta and Dr. Kulwinder Kaur told that more than 80 students participated in the training workshop and certificates were given to all the participating students.
