

Interaction with the beneficiaries of the Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme

The Chief Minister transferred a gas subsidy amount of 60 crores to the accounts of 14 lakh beneficiaries.

Udaipur : Chief Minister Shri Ashok Gehlot said that the state government is formulating policies and programs with the thought of savings, relief and growth. Inflation is a significant problem in the country at present. The common man is suffering from the brunt of inflation. The state government is committed to reducing the burden of inflation on the public. He said people needed help to buy gas cylinders due to rising prices. Through the Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme, the state government is providing cylinders up to Rs. 1140 for Rs. 500. It is fulfilling promises to relieve the common man from inflation.

Mr Gehlot addressed the beneficiaries of the Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme at the state-level beneficiary festival organized at Rajasthan International Center in Jaipur on Monday. He transferred benefits worth Rs 60 crore to the accounts of 14 lakh beneficiaries in one go at the press of a button. Mr Gehlot said that public welfare schemes are being implemented in the state by making women heads. Through these schemes, public money is being spent on the public in the form of relief. This is not a Revadi but a work of public service. He said that with the savings generated from these schemes of the state government, the beneficiary families could spend on improving the future of their children, their education and other maintenance.

Mr Gehlot said that dear-ness relief camps are being set up across the state, due to which the burden of dearth has been reduced on the common person. He said that these camps provide maximum relief to the people through 10 schemes. He said that the state government had given gas cylinders for Rs 500, free treatment up to Rs 25 lakh, minimum pension of Rs 1000, insurance of milch animals, Annapurna food kit, Chief Minister Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme, Indira Gandhi Urban Employment Guarantee Scheme and domestic Schemes like 100 units of free electricity per month for consumers, removal of all surcharges up to 200 units of electricity and 2000 units of free electricity per month for agricultural consumers have been implemented. The Chief Minister said that 1.43 crore families have joined the inflation relief camps so far, and 6.44 crore guarantee cards have been given. He said that every section is getting benefited from the state government's schemes.

The central government should implement social security laws.

Mr Gehlot said that due to the excellent financial management of the state government, welfare schemes are being implemented successfully. State governments take loans for development works only after meeting the standards set by the central government and getting permission. He said that the way the right to education, information, food security and employment was given by the previous central government; on the same lines, the common man has been given the right to health by making a law in the state. The Central Government should enact a law to give eligible citizens the right to social security. The Central Government should declare the Eastern Rajasthan Canal Project (ERCP), important for 13 districts of Rajasthan, as a national project. Otherwise, there is a possibility of an unexpected increase in its cost, like a refinery.

Old pension scheme implemented from a human point of view

The Chief Minister said that the old pension scheme had been implemented in the state from a humanitarian point of view. This has given the employees a sense of security about their future. The employees' future after retirement cannot be put under the stock market. Many states of the country have followed this initiative of Rajasthan. He said that the Central Government should implement OPS in the entire region.

Food and Civil Supplies Minister Mr Pratap Singh Khachariawas said that Rajasthan is the only state in the country to provide gas cylinders for Rs. 500. Chief Secretary Smt. Usha Sharma said that the common people are getting relief from the effects of inflation through inflation relief camps. Short films on Inflation Relief Camp and Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme were screened.

Water Supply Minister Mr Mahesh Joshi, Women and Child Development Minister Mrs Mamta Bhupesh, Mayor Jaipur Heritage Mrs Munesh Gurjar, MLA Mr Amit Chachan, Mr Gopal Meena, Mr Amin Kagzi, Mr Rafiq Khan, Mrs Ganga Devi, Additional Chief Secretary Food and Civil Supplies Department Mr Abhay Kumar, Commissioner DOIT Mr Ashish Gupta, Collector Jaipur Mr Prakash Rajpurohit along with various public representatives, senior officers and beneficiaries were present through virtual and other means.

Saving will secure the future.

During the interaction with the beneficiaries, Mr Gehlot discussed with them the benefits being received in inflation relief camps and various schemes run by the state government. He reiterated his commitment to providing help strategies to people in need without hassle. Mr Gehlot said that gas cylinders are being given to eligible families for Rs. 500 monthly. The government runs schemes only with public money, so it is your right to get relief. He said that the savings that will be generated from the benefits of the projects will be helpful for the children, which will ensure their future.

Women will soon be given free smartphones with data

Mr Gehlot said that providing smartphones with internet connectivity for 3 years would soon start for women. It is also a medium of women's empowerment. While discussing the Udaan scheme, the Chief Minister said the times have changed. Women should discuss menstrual problems without hesitation. The Chief Minister called upon the state's people to play their part in ensuring that no family is deprived of the benefits of the schemes provided in the dearness relief camps. The state government intends to provide help to every family. For this, everyone must go to the centres and get themselves registered.

Beneficiaries said - Gratitude to the government for providing relief from inflation.

Chief Minister Shri Ashok Gehlot interacted with the beneficiaries of different state districts on this occasion. Expressing happiness over the receipt of the subsidy amount in her account, beneficiary Mrs Sunita Koli, a resident of Bhilwara district, said that the state government had done an excellent job for people with low incomes by starting the Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme. Mrs Asma Bano, a resident of Bhilwara district, said that she runs her family's livelihood by making beedis. Earlier, she could not buy a gas cylinder due to its high cost. Now they will be able to buy it quickly. Jhalawar resident Mrs Mamta Suman said that her husband had passed away, and she is the only earning member in the house. They have two children, one of whom is physically challenged. They have many benefits due to the cheapness of gas cylinders. With the savings that will be made from this, they will be able to provide good education to their children. Mrs Hemlata, the beneficiary of Jhalawar itself, said that her husband had passed away from Corona. His child's kidney is terrible, which is being treated free of cost by Chiranjeevi Yojana. The economic condition is weak, but the state government is getting financial support from a pension of Rs 1500 per month and other schemes.

Mrs Bhavna Kumari, a resident of the Sirohi district, said that she had got the benefit of 6 schemes in the dearness relief camp. They are incredibly, very happy to get the use of the Indira Gandhi Gas Cylinder Subsidy Scheme. Mrs Padma Ben, a resident of the Sirohi district, said that she had reached the benefit of 5 schemes in the camp, due to which the whole family is happy. Mrs Priyanka Kanwar, a resident of Pali district, said that she had got the benefit of free electricity for up to 100 units, gas cylinder for Rs. 500, free Annapurna food packet, Chiranjeevi health insurance and Chiranjeevi accident insurance scheme in the camp. Mrs Amin Bano, a resident of Pali district, said that now instead of Rs. 1150, instead of Rs. 1150, her family will get support. Mrs Manisha Khatik, a resident of Rajasamand district, expressed gratitude to the Chief Minister, Mr Ashok Gehlot, for providing a gas cylinder for Rs. 500. Mrs Jyoti Sharma, a resident of Karauli district, said that she has got the benefit of 7 schemes in the dearness relief camp. The state government has understood the problems of women. Mrs Suman Mali, a resident of the Karauli district, said that she feels very relieved after getting cheap gas cylinders.

Mrs Raisa, a resident of Bikaner district, said that her husband does the work of selling vegetables.

Due to low income, it isn't easy to survive. He was quickly registered in the camp and got the benefits of 6 schemes. Now that gas cylinders are readily available, there will be support from other schemes as well. Savings will enable further work to be done. Mrs Rashida, a resident of the Bikaner district, said that earlier, before booking a gas cylinder, she had to think about where she would get the money for it. But now they will be able to take cylinders easily. He got the benefit of 6 schemes in the camp. Mrs Asha Kumari and Krishna Devi, residents of Sikar district, said they are pleased to get cheap gas cylinders. They have gained support from this scheme of the state government. He thanked the Chief Minister for this. Mrs Suman Devi, a resident of the Sriganganagar district, said that she had received guarantee cards for 5 schemes in the camp. By getting cheap gas cylinders, there will be ease of living—many thanks for this. Mrs Hina, an old lady from the Sriganganagar district, said that her husband remains ill. Thanks to the state government for the relief, difficulties will be reduced by getting cheap gas cylinders.

Mrs Shashi Devi, a Jaipur district resident, said she is a single parent. Now he is getting a Rs 1000 pension instead of Rs 500. Due to the high cost of gas cylinders, she could not get them refilled earlier. Now thanks to the state government for providing cylinders for Rs. 500.

They will be able to spend the savings from this relief on the children. Mrs Kanchan Devi, a resident of Jaipur district, said that she is associated with the Women and Child Development Department as an assistant. He thanked the Chief Minister for the cheap gas cylinder. Mrs Taruna Mehta, a resident of Jodhpur district, said that giving cheap gas cylinders is a commendable initiative of the state government.

Thanks to the Chief Minister for this. Mrs Aruna Patwa, a resident of Jodhpur district, said that she got the benefit of 4 schemes after getting registered in the camp—heartfelt thanks to the Chief Minister for this relief in the inflation era.

R.R.R. is the essence of life - Himanshu Buch

Udaipur: Himanshu Buch, as the chief guest at the Pratibha Samman ceremony organized by Pacific University, talked about the importance of R.R.R., which means Rethink a Reinvent and Redesign. While addressing the function, he said that thousands of thoughts come into our mind, and to convert them into reality, adjustment of the body to soul is necessary. Himanshu Buch said students should strive for success and never get disheartened after failure. Parents should not think negatively towards their children and should always motivate them to serve the people by being positive.

There was tremendous enthusiasm among the students in the function. Under the auspices of Pacific University, meritorious students who passed class XII in all streams were felicitated. The faces of topper students from schools across the district lit up after getting respect from the guests. More than 350 students from 150 schools in Udaipur City and the district and border areas participated in this programme. Himanshu Buch, Manas Trivedi, Pro. K.K. Dave and Prof. Hemant Kothari jointly lit the lamp.

Vice Chancellor of the University, Prof. K.K. Dave, said there is no shortcut to success; if the student sets a goal in life and keeps moving forward on it, then success will be achieved. Regarding the scholarship of the University, he said that any student who secures the first position in any faculty of the school and takes admission to Pacific University would get 100 per cent scholarship for the entire course, similarly 75 per cent for the second and third positions, and 75 per cent for the fourth and fourth position. A 50 per cent scholarship will be given on the coming fifth.

The special guest of the program, Manas Trivedi (cyber expert), explained in detail the various types of cyber fraud and told the ways to avoid it; he said that Dungarpur district is notorious for cyber all over India, and he appealed to the youth in any way if you receive money-related or threatening mobile messages, immediately contact the cyber cell, police station, and they also said not to share your location information on social media.

At the beginning of the program, Professor Hemant Kothari, while addressing the students, said that they should become meritorious in every field of life, move ahead in sports and education, and bring laurels to the family. Chef Murl Manohar Gupta, Rohit Mathur and Jacob John taught the methods of making apple pineapple juice and almond chocolate by Pacific Hotel Management from Flameless Kitchen.

At the end of the program, Dr Subhash Sharma thanked everyone. Divya Shekhawat, Shweta Audichya, and Ratna Sisodia coordinated the program.

Social worker Shanta Prince's hard work paid off

Udaipur. The hard work of Shanta Prince, a committed social worker for the people of the Indira Colony slum, finally paid off. This Monday was filled with relief and happiness for the people of Indira Colony, who had been waiting for the lease for years.

Under the leadership of social worker Shanta Prince, people handed over a demand letter to District Collector Tarachand Meena to get the lease. In this regard, the Collector instructed the Municipal Corporation to take immediate action and provide relief to the people. On the instructions of the Collector, Municipal Corporation Commissioner Vasudev Malavat also immediately discussed with the residents of the area, resolved their problems, and issued pattas hand in hand.

The faces of the colonists blossomed after getting the leases in hand. For great relief, the residents expressed gratitude to Shanta, District Collector Tarachand Meena, Municipal Commissioner Vasudev Malavat, etc.

Narendra Modi has paved the way for prosperity: MP Meena

Udaipur (Dr Munesh Arora): Prime Minister Narendra Modi has paved the way for prosperity in the country during his tenure of nine years by taking decisions like the construction of Ram Mandir, triple talaq, abolition of Article 370 and demonetisation; he has shown that BJP does what it says. Member of Parliament Arjun Meena, while mentioning the works done during his nine-year parliamentary tenure, said MP Meena said that Udaipur had seen overall development during his parliamentary tenure.

The Udaipur-Ahmedabad gauge conversion is the most significant achievement, under which the journey from Udaipur to Ahmedabad has become more accessible. Through this route, connectivity has been established in the country's southwest and northern states. He said that the upcoming Lok Sabha elections will electrify this route, reducing travel time to Mumbai.

He said that efforts are on to get Udaipur Airport international status. The work of expansion of roads and conversion to six lanes is nearing completion, and the Delhi to Mumbai Expressway is also almost three-fourths completed and will be completed in the next two to one years. With this, the journey from Delhi to Udaipur can be achieved by road transport in 6-7 hours.

The MP expressed the feeling of declaring Mangarh Dham as a national monument before the assembly elections. During his tenure, the MP said that the work done in connectivity and infrastructure in nine Lakecity Headline years was done in less than 70 years of Congress.
