Reviving a 73-Year-Old Heart

Udaipur: Paras Health, Udaipur's specialists, performed a successful procedure involving Intravascular Lithotripsy (IVL) and coronary angioplasty to relieve a 73-year-old woman from her heart-related issues. Following the procedure, she is now enjoying a renewed life. Performing coronary interventions with coronary classification can be challenging, a feat that was accomplished successfully by Dr. Hitesh Yadav, Consultant Cardiology, and his team at Paras Health, Udaipur.

Dr. Hitesh Yadav, Consultant Cardiology at Paras Health, Udaipur, explained that when the woman came to them, she had been suffering from chest pain and breathlessness for over 6 months. Upon examination and coronary angiography, severe Left Main and Triple Vessel Disease were observed, and interventional surgery was recommended. After obtaining consent from the patient's family, the decision was made to perform coronary angioplasty along with Intravascular Lithotripsy (IVL), and the procedure was successfully conducted with safety precautions. The procedure went well, and after the woman's recovery, she was discharged from the hospital. The patient and her family expressed gratitude to the specialists at Paras Health, Udaipur, stating that they had given her a new life through their expertise and qualifications. They extended their thanks to the hospital staff as well, mentioning the excellent healthcare professionals who provided a positive perspective, making all of this possible.

Successful Treatment of Premature Babies in a Short Time

Society's Progress and Cultural Development

Udaipur: On Saturday, August 12, 2023, the second day of the District-Level Spiritual Seminar, organized by the Anand Marg Pracharak Sangh at the Jagruti Parishar on Tekri-Madari Road, Udaipur, focused on the theme "The Progress of Society and the Development of Culture."

The seminar's host, Giridhari Lal Soni, highlighted that Dr. S. K. Varma, the Chief Trainer, elucidated the essence of societal progress. Dr. Varma explained that the advancement of society is a balance between contraction and expansion, classified as restrained development and restrained regression, as well as progressive development and progressive regression. These various trajectories of individuals collectively form the societal trajectory. He exemplified the civilization of Egypt to underscore how obstruction in societal trajectory can lead to the ruin of an entire culture. He emphasized that India's unchanged civilization can be attributed to a robust social and spiritual mindset and a thought-oriented mental attitude. To ensure holistic progress in the future, a well-developed spiritual mindset is essential. Shri P. R. Sarkar's scientific approach of "Neo-Humanism," "Progressive Utilitarian Principles (Prout)," and "Mental Practice based on Yoga Tantra" was elucidated by Dr. Varma.

Subsequently, under the guidance of Acharya Shubhagatanand Avadhoot, attendees participated in various spiritual practices, including asanas, kushikis, tandav, morning chants, kirtan, collective prayers, meditation, and self-study sessions.
