Rajasthan Cabinet Minister's Humble Origins Shine Amidst Grand Welcome in Udaipur

Minister Babulal Kharadi Attends Development Program in Kochala, Benefiting Locals

Udaipur (Shabnam Bano): In a remarkable display of humility and dedication, Babulal Kharadi, the Rajasthan Cabinet Minister from Jhadol, stepped into Udaipur for the first time since assuming office, leaving an indelible mark on the city. Despite the grandeur of his reception, Kharadi's journey from a modest hut to the political limelight reflects the essence of grassroots leadership within the BJP.

From the moment he landed at the airport, Kharadi was met with warm welcomes at every turn, emphasizing the respect and admiration he commands within the party. The festivities continued as he made his way to the BJP city and rural district office in Balicha South Extension, where he was ceremoniously adorned with a pagdi (turban) and an uparna by city district president Raviendra Shrivastava and rural district president Chandragupt Singh Chauhan.

During his visit to Kailashpuri, Kharadi sought the blessings of Lord Ekaligannath, expressing gratitude for the significant honor bestowed upon him as a ground-level worker within the organization. Addressing the gathering, the Cabinet Minister underscored the importance of disciplined and respectful behavior among party workers, emphasizing that such values are integral to success.

In a nod to the changing political landscape, Kharadi articulated the need for officials to adapt their systems while maintaining a commitment to public welfare. He assured that despite the absence of Gulabchand Kataria in the party, the workers' spirits would remain undaunted. Kharadi's unwavering dedication was evident as he pledged to devote 100% effort towards realizing the dreams of the city, district, and state.

Babulal Kharadi's story stands as a testament to the transformative power of the BJP, where a humble origin does not hinder one's ascent to the highest echelons of political leadership.

Following his appointment as a Cabinet Minister, Babulal Kharadi attended the "Developed India Resolve Journey" program organized in Kochala in the Jharol block. Upon receiving the status of Cabinet Minister from MLA, the local residents warmly welcomed and honored Minister Kharadi. Minister Kharadi provided detailed information about the "Developed India Resolve Journey" program, aligned with the vision of making India a developed nation, and highlighted various schemes aimed at benefiting the eligible beneficiaries.

During the event, Minister Kharadi administered the oath of the "Developed India" pledge to all present at the camp. Addressing the rural audience, he briefed them about various government schemes and urged them to take advantage of such programs. District Magistrate Mamta Pawar, along with other local representatives and a large number of villagers, were present at the occasion.

Letter Raises Concerns Over Congress

Udaipur : Bhawarlal Gurjar, the Kulpramukh of Rajasthan Vidyapeeth and former Vice President of the Rural District Congress Committee in Udaipur, has written a letter to Mallikarjun Kharge, the National President of the Congress, holding former Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot responsible for the party's defeat in the state.

In his letter, Gurjar has pointed out the working style of Gehlot and former Legislative Assembly Speaker Dr. C.P. Joshi, citing favoritism, neglect of party workers, and biased ticket distribution as the reasons for Congress' setback. He alleged that party workers were not given due importance, and there was a lack of emphasis on their opinions during election campaigns.

Based on the statements of former legislators, responsibilities were assigned to individuals who had little or no experience in organizational matters. Their failure in establishing coordination among Congress workers and voters led to an overall inefficiency in the party's functioning.

Gurjar has called upon Rahul Gandhi, Sonia Gandhi, and Priyanka Gandhi to ensure a disciplinary action against those responsible for the defeat. He emphasized the need for a timely and strict inquiry against the individuals deemed accountable for the loss.

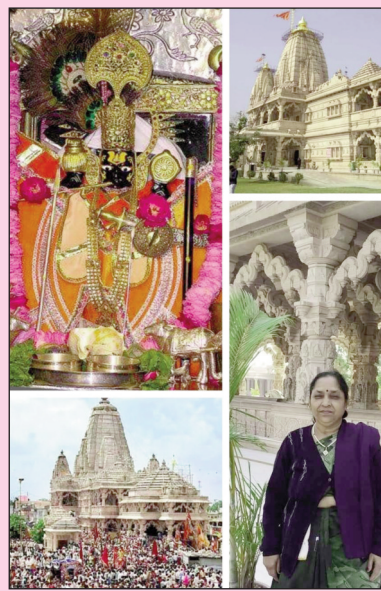

Sharing insights about the letter, Gurjar highlighted in a special meeting that the upcoming Lok Sabha elections are crucial for the country. Considering the disappointment witnessed in the previous two Lok Sabha elections, it is imperative to take corrective actions to instill a new sense of hope among Congress workers. Gurjar stressed the necessity of addressing the issues that have contributed to Congress' current state before the impending elections.

Seth Sambliya Ji Temple in Rajasthan: A Spiritual and Tourist Attraction

In the rich tapestry of Krishna temples in India, Seth Sambliya Ji's temple in Rajasthan has emerged not only as a center of devotion and faith for the residents but also as a captivating attraction for tourists. Situated in Mandfiya on National Highway 27-48 (Golden Quadrilateral Road Plan) en route from Chittorgarh to Udaipur, this ancient and contemporary religious site is dedicated to Lord Krishna.

Main Temple in Mandfiya: A Spiritual Marvel

The main temple in Mandfiya, where the smallest idol is enshrined, is renowned as the epitome of Krishna Dham. This temple, located 41 kilometers from Chittorgarh Railway Station and 65 kilometers from Udaipur's Dabok Airport, showcases remarkable architectural and sculptural craftsmanship. The design of the temple is reminiscent of renowned temples like Jagannath Temple in Puri, Delwara Temples, and Ranakpur Temples. Due to its artistic significance, the temple has become a focal point of attraction for tourists.

Seth Sambliya Ji's Other Temples

Seth Sambliya Ji's second temple is situated at Bhadsoda-Bagund Chaurahas, where the central idol is consecrated. This temple is also known as the "Prakaty Mandir" or the Manifest Temple due to the manifestation of deities. The third temple is located in Bhadsoda town, considered the oldest among them, where the largest idol is consecrated. These temples were constructed under the patronage of the Mewar royal family and were later expanded over time.

Legend and Recognition:

According to prevalent beliefs, the excavation of these idols is linked to Meera Bai, who worshipped the same Giridhar Gopal as Seth Sambliya Ji. The story goes that during Aurangzeb's reign when Mughal forces were demolishing temples, and upon their arrival in Mewar, it was revealed that these idols were with Sant Dayaram. Fearing desecration, Dayaram buried the idols under a banyan tree in the open ground of Bagund-Bhadsoda village. The spiritual journey of Sant Dayaram culminated, and in 1840, Bholaram Gurjar, a shepherd, had a dream leading him to excavate these idols. Three temples were built to enshrine the story of the three idols, establishing the divine presence of Shri Sambliya Seth Ji in Bhadsoda-Bagund.

Professor Manju Baghmar, Serving in Udaipur as an Educator for 25 Years, Now a Minister

- Dr Munesh Arora

Udaipur: Professor Manju Baghmar, who has dedicated 25 years to serving as an educator in Udaipur, has now become a minister in the BJP government. She is the second woman minister in the Rajasthan government and has been appointed as the State Minister. Baghmar has been elected as the MLA from the Jayal constituency in Nagaur.

Professor Manju Baghmar, born in Byawar and currently residing in Nagaur, has had a long association with Udaipur. She joined Mohanlal Sukhadia University as an Assistant Professor in 1998 and later became a Professor in 2014. Throughout this period, she remained actively involved in the field of education. Professor Devendra Shrivastava of the Commerce College mentioned that Baghmar has excelled in academics, securing a gold medal in LLB. She will now be on special leave for five years, as per university regulations.

Baghmar, known for her dedication to student welfare, has served as the head of the Department of Business Administration and also held the position of Chief Warden in the college. She has also been an Associate Dean at the Commerce College.

Having contested in four elections in the Jayal constituency of Nagaur, Baghmar won two of them. She first contested on the BJP ticket in 2008 but faced defeat. She secured victory in 2013 and later faced another defeat in 2018. In the 2023 elections, she contested again with the BJP and emerged victorious, leading to her appointment as a State Minister in the government. Her supporters celebrated her ministerial appointment by bursting crackers and sharing sweets.

"Phata Poster Nikla Blockbuster": Box Office Gets its Life Back

- Nandani Singh

In 2023, Bollywood experienced a magnificent Box Office success with several films fetching over ₹500 crores. Besides the financial success, it was very heartening to see cinema theatres making a comeback after facing the challenges of pandemic. Shah Rukh Khan had an impressive and a standout year with Pathaan and Jawan, which surpassed ₹1000 crore, while Sunny Deol surprised everyone around with Gadar 2 earning ₹687 crore. Rajinikanth at 73 proved age is just a number with Jailer's massive collection of ₹605 crore. Film expert and enthusiast Akshay Rathi credited the astounding success of these films to understanding the audience preferences and demand. Even films like "Leo" and "Animal" which got mixed reviews showed the industry's resilience in the year 2023.

The Deol legacy continued when Bobby Deol became fans' favourite for his brief but impactful role in Animal which earned a whopping amount of ₹850 crore globally. Negative reviews had non-existent impact on these movies. It is highly expected that Bollywood will experience success in a similar way in 2024 too. The vibes are positive. As Siddharth Anand is gearing up for a powerful start to 2024 with the release of the film "Fighter," after the success of "Pathaan." Film expert Akshay Rathi expresses optimism, reflecting on the lessons learned in 2023. He highlights the much exciting lineup of films for 2024, including "Pushpa 2," "Singham 3," Aamir Khan's December release, and Ajay Devgn's projects like "Maidaan" and "Auron Mein Kahan Dum Tha" to "Shaitan." Akshay Kumar brings "Bade Miyan Chote Miyan" and another film, while a potential project with hints of collaboration with Shah Rukh Khan in Sujoy Ghosh's film is in the works. Varun Dhawan's collaboration with Atlee is also on the horizon. Rathi expects these big entertainers to capture audiences' attention nationwide, contributing to the industry's ongoing success. Additionally, there's a growing trend among actors like Shah Rukh and Kareena Kapoor to prioritize content and substance over glamour particularly in medium-budget films, which signals a willingness to experiment. Girish Johar, famous film trade and business analyst, looks forward with hope and anticipates a prosperous 2024, emphasizing the importance of medium-budget films alongside big-budget releases for an all-round thriving industry. He shows unwavering confidence that the diverse upcoming films in 2024 will resonate with audiences, ensuring stability, vivid commercial landscape and continued sustainable success for the film industry.

Sailing High : Alumni of HZL's High-Flyers Program Share Success Stories

In a recent Alumni Meet organized by Hindustan Zinc Limited (HZL), former participants of the High-Flyers Program came together to share their inspiring success stories. The event, held at Vidya Bhavan, not only witnessed the reunion of over 80 students from the past five batches but also garnered encouragement and insights from top executives of Hindustan Zinc.

These alumni, now pursuing higher education in renowned institutions across the country and some already placed in esteemed organizations, serve as living examples of how dedication and hard work can turn dreams into reality, overcoming economic and social challenges.

One such success story is that of Mohit from Bhilwara, who faced numerous struggles due to financial constraints. Mohit's life took a positive turn when he became a part of the High-Flyers Program. Currently in his final semester of engineering at MBM Jodhpur, Mohit has secured placement at JSW Energy, marking a significant achievement. Expressing gratitude for the High-Flyers Program, Mohit credited it not only for shaping his future but also for enhancing his personality.

The interactive session during the meet featured Hemlata Kunwar Devda, a shining example of determination. Hailing from the remote village of Nohara, Hemlata overcame hurdles to become the first engineer in her village. From pursuing engineering in Himachal Pradesh's NIT Hamirpur to covering thousands of kilometers away from home, Hemlata stands as an inspiration for other girls in her village. Her journey embodies the success of the High-Flyers Program.

During the program, Muneesh Vasudeva, C-HRO, Duriez Raj, Chief Commercial Officer, and Anupam Nidhi, Head CSR, along with other dignitaries from Hindustan Zinc, shared practical insights. They emphasized the importance of believing in oneself and focusing on exploring new opportunities. Muneesh Vasudeva shed light on the mission of inclusive development and urged former students to contribute to the upliftment of their surrounding communities.

The High-Flyers Program, which aims to focus on education for rural and tribal students aspiring to join prestigious institutions like IITs and NITs, has made a significant impact. Operating through the Shiksha Sambal Foundation, the program selects talented students from humble backgrounds, provides them with free coaching, and supports their overall development. In collaboration with Technical Bid Regions Adventures Pvt Ltd, the program has benefited 262 students from regions like Agucha, Chanderiya, Dariba, Debari, Kayad, Udaipur, and Pantnagar.

The success stories shared during the Alumni Meet underscore the program's contribution to creating a brighter and more inclusive future for students. The High-Flyers Program continues to pave the way for a promising and diverse path for aspiring individuals, exemplifying the transformative power of education.
