Don't Worry If You Don't Get a Government College for MBBS

Udaipur: Considering India's population, there is a clear shortage of doctors. Many students aspire to become doctors to serve patients, but due to a lack of opportunities, they cannot pursue MBBS. The government provides very few seats for MBBS. Every year, nearly 2.4 million candidates appear for the entrance exam to get into government MBBS colleges, but only about 55,000 students secure seats in government colleges, with private colleges offering around 53,000 seats. Students who do not get admission into government colleges often turn to private colleges, but the high fees deter many from pursuing their dreams of becoming doctors. However, several countries are making it possible for these students to achieve their dream of becoming doctors. Every year, more than 20,000 Indian students go abroad to study MBBS and return to India to offer their skilled services.

Chanda Jain, Director of Apex Education, mentioned that countries like Kyrgyzstan, Kazakhstan, Georgia, Barbados, and others have a good demand for MBBS among Indian students. The maximum cost of studying MBBS in these countries ranges from ₹30 to ₹35 lakhs, whereas in India, it ranges from ₹70 lakhs to ₹1 crore. The MBBS curriculum abroad is similar to that in India. After obtaining a degree from abroad, students must pass an exam in India to practice medicine. Preparation for this exam is provided by top Indian professors at colleges abroad. Hundreds of students from South Rajasthan are pursuing MBBS in Kyrgyzstan, and this number is expected to increase in the future.

There is a lack of awareness in Rajasthan about studying MBBS abroad, and people fear studying in foreign countries. However, living and studying there is as safe as in India.

Visit to Naila, Jogi, and Fatehsagar Lakes

Udaipur: Learning from fish deaths in Naila Lake, it is essential to run aerator fountains continuously in all lakes and ponds. Keeping these water bodies free from waste and pollution is crucial. These views were expressed during a lake dialogue on Sunday, following inspections of Jogi Lake, Naila Lake, and Govardhan Sagar.

Lake expert Dr. Anil Mehta emphasized that adequate oxygen is vital for fish survival. Organic waste and dirty water decrease oxygen levels, especially during rainy seasons with persistent clouds. This hinders photosynthesis, further reducing oxygen. Immediate aeration is necessary to prevent fish deaths, requiring continuous operation of aerators, particularly at night.

Former Lake Development Authority member Tej Shankar Paliwal highlighted litter in Naila Lake, urging prompt removal to prevent decay. He stressed the importance of saving small ponds to avoid water scarcity and flooding, referencing Bangalore's issues.

Nand Kishore Sharma, Director of Gandhi Manav Kalyan Society, warned that selling plots in the catchment area behind the government school near Jogi Lake threatens its ecological balance.

Kushal Rawal, Director of Abhinav Sansthan, noted that despite Rajasthan High Court's 2007 instructions for conserving small ponds, these orders are often ignored.

Senior citizen Drupad Singh pointed out the deteriorating stone pitching of Naila Lake, calling for immediate repairs.

Environmental activist Jayant Paliwal emphasized the need for joint efforts from public representatives, administrative officials, and citizens to ensure the health, beauty, and safety of Naila Lake and other small lakes.
