

Modi's Thunderous Address in Bikaner Sends Strong Message Across Border

Bikaner: In the blistering heat of Rajasthan's Jyeshtha month, Prime Minister Narendra Modi delivered a powerful address near the border town of Bikaner on Thursday, sending a strong message of strength, security, and development—one that echoed beyond the border into Pakistan.

PM Modi was in Bikaner to inaugurate and lay the foundation stone for development projects worth ₹26,000 crore. The event was attended by Rajasthan Governor Haribhau Kisanrao Bagde, Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma, Union Ministers Ashwini Vaishnav and Arjun Ram Meghwal, and witnessed participation from 18 states and UTs through online platforms.

Before beginning his speech, the Prime Minister sought blessings at the revered Karmi Mata temple in Deshnok. He then launched into a sharp warning to Pakistan following India's swift military response to the April 22 terror attack in Pahalgam, under the newly launched counter-terror initiative "Operation Sindoor."

"When Sindoor turns to gunpowder, the outcome is inevitable," Modi declared, asserting that India's armed forces had taken out nine terror hubs across the border within just 22 minutes of the attack. He made it clear that India will not engage in trade or dialogue with Pakistan unless it pertains to Pakistan-occupied Kashmir. "The blood of Indians will be avenged," he thundered, warning Pakistan of economic ruin if it continues exporting terror. The Prime Minister also emphasized India's right to block river water from flowing into Pakistan, reiterating that no drop will be allowed to pass unjustly.

Modi unveiled three tenets of India's post-Sindoor security doctrine:

1. Every terror attack will be met with a decisive Indian response.

2. India will not be deterred by nuclear threats.

3. No difference will be made between terrorists and state sponsors.

He also mentioned ongoing efforts with seven international groups working to expose Pakistan's duplicity on terrorism.

On the development front, PM Modi announced major infrastructural projects, including the Amritsar-Jam Nagar economic corridor and the Delhi-Mumbai Expressway. He flagged off the new Bikaner-Mumbai train and highlighted central investments of ₹70,000 crore in road development and ₹10,000 crore in railways in Rajasthan since 2014.

Citing CM Bhajanlal Sharma's contributions, he praised Rajasthan's growth and emphasized the global potential of local products like Bikaneri bhujia.

He concluded with a resounding message: "India strikes not in anger, but in justice. And it never bows."
